FORD TURNS TABLES — After introducing his new personal photographer, David Hume Kennerly, at the White House Sunday, President Ford playfully took Kennerly's camera and aimed it at the former United Press International and Time Magazine lensman. Kennerly, 27, of Roseburg, Ore., won a Pulitzer Prize for his photo coverage in the Vietnam war for UPI.

Ford 'Not Ruling Out Anyone' In VP Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford bore down Sunday on the task of choosing a vice president, and the political advisers whose advice he sought reported that his list of possibilities included Democrats, blacks and women.

Leaving the White House for his suburban Alexandria, Va., home, Ford told reporters he had received "constructive and very helpful advice," from members of Congress and other officials in a series of half-hour private sessions in the Oval Office.

He said he "could not go beyond that" on whether he had narrowed down his choices but when asked if he might nominate a woman he replied, "We don't rule out anybody."

Some of the leaders said on leaving the Oval Office that the President had himself compiled a list of about 15 names but also continued to seek their suggestions.

Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said Ford mentioned the names of "several" Democrats and women, but did not name them.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the only black in the Senate, frequently has been spoken of as a possible choice, and it was said that his name came up in some of the talks Sunday.

But Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., whose own name is near the top of most speculation, said he would rule out Democrats, couldn't think "real fast" of a qualified woman, and does not feel Brooke is representative of U.S. blacks.

Goldwater said he would be willing to be vice president himself, but told reporters that Ford is aware that he feels he is too old at 65. His own favorite, he said, is Republican National Committee Chairman George Bush.

He told reporters he doubted that former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would be chosen because Rockefeller wants to run for the presidency. He said he had no objection to a black serving in the post but "I would not pick Brooke."

House Republican Whip Leslie Arends of Illinois, and Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., said the President had not even mentioned such possible qualifications as geographical regions. Conable said the names of former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and former Defense Secretary Melvin R.

Laird were among those mentioned.

Ford's day began with Episcopal church services at Immanuel Church-on-the-Hill in Alexandria, where he heard Rev. William Dols Jr. preach on the theme of the Biblical passage "For everything there is a season, and a time to die, and a time to pluck up what has been planted."

Lawmakers To Wrap Up Action Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The final chapter in impeachment proceedings against Richard M. Nixon has been drafted and lacks only a final House decision on its final form as history and legal precedent.

In the Senate, meanwhile, there is strong sentiment that Nixon has been "punished and disgraced" enough and should not be prosecuted for his part in Watergate. But there appears to be little enthusiasm for granting him formal immunity.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., of the House Judiciary Committee has flatly ruled out the possibility of carrying on the impeachment of Nixon in absentia.

"The process of impeachment is over with," Rodino said after Nixon had left town and Gerald R. Ford had been sworn in as the 38th President.

"Whom would we proceed against?" With pressure off the committee to get its impeachment report to the full House quickly, Rodino has decided to take his time and assure that what he does send is flawless.

"The facts as we have shown them will forever be spread on the record," he said.

But Rodino and the House leadership have yet to decide how to present the report to the House. William Brown, House parliamentarian, has been asked to research the situation and come up with alternatives.

One of the ways being considered is to present the 435 House members with a resolution formally abating the impeachment process formally begun last Feb. 6.

House leaders and Rodino indicated they wanted to avoid forcing the House to take a position on impeachment now that the issue is behind them. To get the report into the formal record, therefore, they are considering language in a resolution which would merely acknowledge receipt of the voluminous report.

Floor Leader Hugh Scott was one of the Senate Republicans arguing against any further punishment for Nixon, saying: "Hanging is enough without drawing and quartering."

Interviewed on CBS-TV's

Face the Nation Sunday, Scott

said, "In my judgment Dick Nixon could not get a fair trial" if prosecuted for his acknowledged part in the Watergate cover-up.

Influential Senate Democrats such as John C. Stennis, D-Miss., also believe Nixon suffered the ultimate punishment.

"It was a personally punishing thing for him to do," Stennis said of Nixon's resignation. "I believe enough punishment is enough and this is enough."

"I am willing to let the past be the past on this matter. I hope and believe this is the way the people of America feel."

Ex-President Meets With 2 Old Friends

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.

(UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon left his oceanside villa Sunday for the first time since returning to California as a private citizen to take a two-hour drive with friends to a secluded beach.

Nixon was accompanied on the drive by his close friend Bebe Rebozo, another unidentified passenger, two cars of Secret Service agents and some 10 cars of following newsmen.

The Nixon motorcade broke away from newsmen at the Camp Pendleton Marine Base at Oceanside and spent about an hour and a half on Red Beach on the base grounds.

In another car already waiting for him at the beach were his wife, Pat, daughter Tricia Cox and her husband who emerged together with Nixon when the motorcade left to return to the villa.

Earlier Sunday, Nixon met at his home with Rebozo and another of his closest friends and financial confidants, Robert Abplanalp.

Cyprus Greeks Free Turks In 'Gesture'

By United Press International — Greek-led forces on Cyprus released the first of thousands of Turkish war prisoners Sunday in a "unilateral act of good will" aimed at saving the deadlocked Geneva peace talks from collapse.

In Athens, columns of tanks rumbled through the streets of the Greek capital toward the port of Piraeus amid speculation armored forces were being readied for possible use on Cyprus in case fighting erupts again.

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit warned in Ankara that any agreement for peace on Cyprus would be worthless unless Athens and Greek Cypriots kept pledges to pull back from Turkish enclaves on the island and freed prisoners.

UPI Correspondent Michael Keats reported from Nicosia that 13 haggard Turkish soldiers, including four officers, were taken from a prison camp in southern Cyprus and allowed to cross into the Turkish enclave of the capital.

A Red Cross spokesman said the Greeks turned over a list of 3,200 Turkish soldiers they hold prisoner on the island. A military spokesman said their release would begin en masse this morning.

In Geneva, delegates at the Cyprus peace conference reported minor progress Sunday in the talks by Greece, Turkey and Britain to work out a political settlement for the embattled island in the Mediterranean.

A Heavy Heist

SANTA FE SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — The robbery at the Marathon Steel Co. was a heavy crime indeed.

A band of thieves using at least three trucks, the company's own overhead crane and a good deal of determination stole 66 tons of 20-foot steel construction girders, worth $24,000, while the company was closed for the night, police reported.

Gunmen Rob, Terrorize LA-SF Bus Passengers

By United Press International — Three men hijacked a Greyhound bus early Sunday on the way to San Francisco, robbed the 34 persons aboard of $3,000, then allegedly raped a 16-year-old girl before getting off.

The three suspects got off on a freeway offramp in Camarillo and fled in a waiting car driven by a fourth man, Ventura County sheriff's deputies said.

Sgt. Dan Galitz said the bus, whose passengers included 12 children, was commandeered by the three men late Saturday night shortly after it left the Los Angeles bus terminal.

The bandits robbed each of the passengers, taking $1,200 in cash, $1,200 in travelers checks and $800 in jewelry.

After allegedly assaulting a 16-year-old girl, the men forced the driver to stop on an offramp in Camarillo where they escaped in the waiting car, which headed south.

Two minutes before the hijacking, a passenger in the rear overheard whispers that warned of the terror to come.

"I was nearly asleep when I heard a voice whispering, 'I want to kill some of these,'" said Anders Franzen, 25, of Stockholm, Sweden, who boarded the bus in Los Angeles.

"But another whispered, 'No! no killing!' I was frightened to death. I was afraid even to say anything to my two friends. I just waited and hoped nothing would happen," Franzen said after arriving in San Francisco.

Moments later, he said, the screaming gunmen announced the holdup aboard the darkened bus.

Moving down the aisle, the black gunmen screamed and shouted racial epithets at passengers, threatening to kill them. One repeated over and over, "I hate you, I hate you...give me your money," he said.

A man about 60 told a gunman he had no money, a passenger said.

"Do you want to die?" the robber shouted, jamming a pistol into his chest.

The man produced $500 in cash, the witness said.

Another elderly man was slugged in the temple with a pistol during the 10 minutes in which two men worked their way down the aisle, demanding cash and jewelry at gunpoint, while the third held a gun on the driver.

"Then they went down the aisle a second time," another passenger said.

Enraged Boyfriend Kills Girl's Kin

DETROIT (UPI) — Enraged because his girl friend spent the night out, a Vietnam veteran Sunday killed her father and brother, raped and killed her sister and then slashed a 2½-year-old child, police said.

The bloody attack at the home of Leonard Reed, 47, began when he told his daughter's boyfriend he could not use the family car to look for her.

Police said the boyfriend, David C. Key, 23, got a hammer and beat Reed unconscious, then went to a bedroom and tried to rape another daughter, 16, at knife point. The girl ran into another room, seeking help from her brother, Leonard Jr., 15. The boy was stabbed to death and the girl was returned to the bedroom, raped and stabbed.

Detectives said the assailant returned to the battered father, plunged the knife into him and then found little Stanley Reed in his crib and stabbed him.

Key walked into the street, his clothes soaked with blood, approached a policeman and said, "I just killed four people."

Police said the boyfriend, who had lived in the home for a few weeks, had been drinking heavily during the night and waiting for Reed's daughter to return home.

Mourning Mom, Sister Robbed

CULVER CITY (UPI) — The mother and sister of an El Monte police officer, who was shot to death last month during a shootout, were robbed of $180 Sunday while visiting the officer's grave.

Trinidad Arceo and her daughter, Gloria Sarver, had gone to the gravesite of Manuel Arceo, and upon returning to their car, found a man going through their purses. The suspect escaped.

Arceo, 31, was accidentally shot by another policeman when a bullet ricocheted and hit him in the heart during a shootout in Baldwin Park July 9.

NY Garbageman's Job 'Most Hazardous'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A former city health official reports that garbage collection in New York City is the most hazardous work in the United States.

According to the report, the lot of New York's 11,000 city garbagemen in just about every category — heart trouble, accidents and other illnesses — is worse than for other workers.

Dr. Joseph Cimino, former city health commissioner and medical director to the Sanitation Department, made the claim in an article in the latest issue of the American Medical Association publication, Prism. Cimino's comments drew an immediate reply from Fire Commissioner John T. O'Hagan. The city's fire and police forces have maintained they should earn more than sanitationmen because their jobs are more hazardous.

"They work in a controlled environment," O'Hagan said of the sanitationmen, "and the injuries shouldn't be as high as ours."

But John DeLury, head of the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association, backed Cimino. He said the sanitationmen — who now get a base salary of $14,840 and will go up to $15,730 in mid-1975 — have used official government figures to back up their request, so far unsuccessful, for pay parity. The garbagemen get 90 per cent of the pay given police and firemen.

Cimino, who served as medical director for the Sanitation Department from 1966 to 1969 and later took over as city health commissioner, said that garbagemen suffer nearly three times the number of injuries sustained by coal miners, which he listed as the second most dangerous occupation in the country.

The report said that New York City sanitationmen are six times more prone to accidents than other industrial workers and suffer from heart disease at a rate almost twice that for other men in similar age categories.

His report also said the trash workers suffer from arthritis at the rate of 56.2 per thousand persons, compared to farmers, who are stricken at a rate of 42.1 per thousand.

'LIKE IT OR NOT'

Sen. Scott Says Ford To Be GOP Standard-Bearer In '76

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott predicted Sunday that President Ford will lead the GOP ticket in 1976 "whether he likes it or not" because of pressure from his party.

Scott said the person Ford picks as vice president will probably occupy the No. 2 position on the 1976 Republican slate.

Both Scott and assistant Senate GOP Leader Robert P. Griffin said there are many potential vice presidential candidates who can withstand close personal investigation and win congressional approval.

The two GOP leaders spoke in separate televised interviews just before meeting individually with Ford to discuss the vice presidential selection and other issues, such as inflation, facing the new administration.

When Ford was named vice president nine months ago, he said he was not interested in running for the presidency. Scott was asked whether Ford might change his mind now, or whether Ford's vice presidential selection might lead the GOP ticket in 1976.

"Conditions may force him (Ford) to run," Scott replied. "I rather think he will run. I think he is picking the No. 2 man for 1976, whether he likes it or not. I think the party will force it."

Griffin said he, too, thinks Ford should seek a full term as president despite Betty Ford's strong desire that her husband retire.

Both Scott and Griffin said GOP election chances — viewed as slim when Nixon was in office — are now much better. "The sun is over the mountains and reaching into the valleys," Scott said.

Scott appeared on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation." Griffin was on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

In wide-ranging interviews, both Scott and Griffin said Nixon should not be prosecuted for Watergate-related crimes now that he has resigned.

Scott was one member of the congressional delegation that visited Nixon just before he resigned and outlined the near certainty of his impeachment and conviction should he try to stay in office.

He said White House Chief of Staff Alexander Haig cautioned the delegation not to urge Nixon to step down because the President was "on the verge of resignation, and if you suggest it he might take umbrage and reverse the field."

During the meeting, Scott said, Nixon "had his feet on the desk. He chatted away about being the only (living) ex-president."

Pat Nixon's Childhood Home Firebomb Target

CERRITOS, Calif. (UPI) —

The home where Mrs. Pat Nixon, wife of the former President, grew up was firebombed early Sunday.

Authorities said a molotov cocktail was thrown against the house and the flames spread inside. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

The home is part of Patricia Nixon Historical Park. Firemen who responded to the alarm called in by a passerby said the flames were knocked down in five minutes.

The city of Cerritos owns the home which is preserved as a historical monument.

Mrs. Nixon was born in Ely, Nev., in 1912, but her family moved here the following year when her father took up farming in neighboring Artesia. Deputies were investigating the incident.

ABA Chief Sidesteps On Nixon

HONOLULU (UPI) — Chesterfield Smith, president of the 185,000-member American Bar Association, says he believes it is premature to make a decision on whether former President Nixon should be tried in court for Watergate-related crimes.

Smith made the comments prior to the Association's 87th annual meeting which opens here today.

He also said he does not believe Nixon should be looked on as a "pitiful" figure.

"No man is above the law," Smith said. "Judgments should be made on the merits of Mr. Nixon's case just like anyone else."

Smith said he doubts Nixon plans to practice law again, but added that the question of disbarment should more properly be raised at such a time — if the former President does want to return to his former profession.

"I don't think disbarment is the primary issue, until he decides to practice law again," Smith said.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. and chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, said Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has "complete authority" to decide if Nixon should face prosecution.

R. Sargent Shriver, who ran unsuccessfully for vice-president on the Democratic ticket headed by Sen. George McGovern two years ago against Nixon, said he is against any form of immunity for the ex-President.

Shriver, who will be speaking to the attorneys, said the former President is "under the law like everyone else."

"And I think he's responsible for his actions just as any grownup is responsible for his actions," Shriver said.

The dramatic ending to Nixon's presidency last week resulted in cancellation by many delegates and speakers who had planned to attend the convention.

President Ford and Chief Justice Warren Burger were two of the top speakers who canceled.

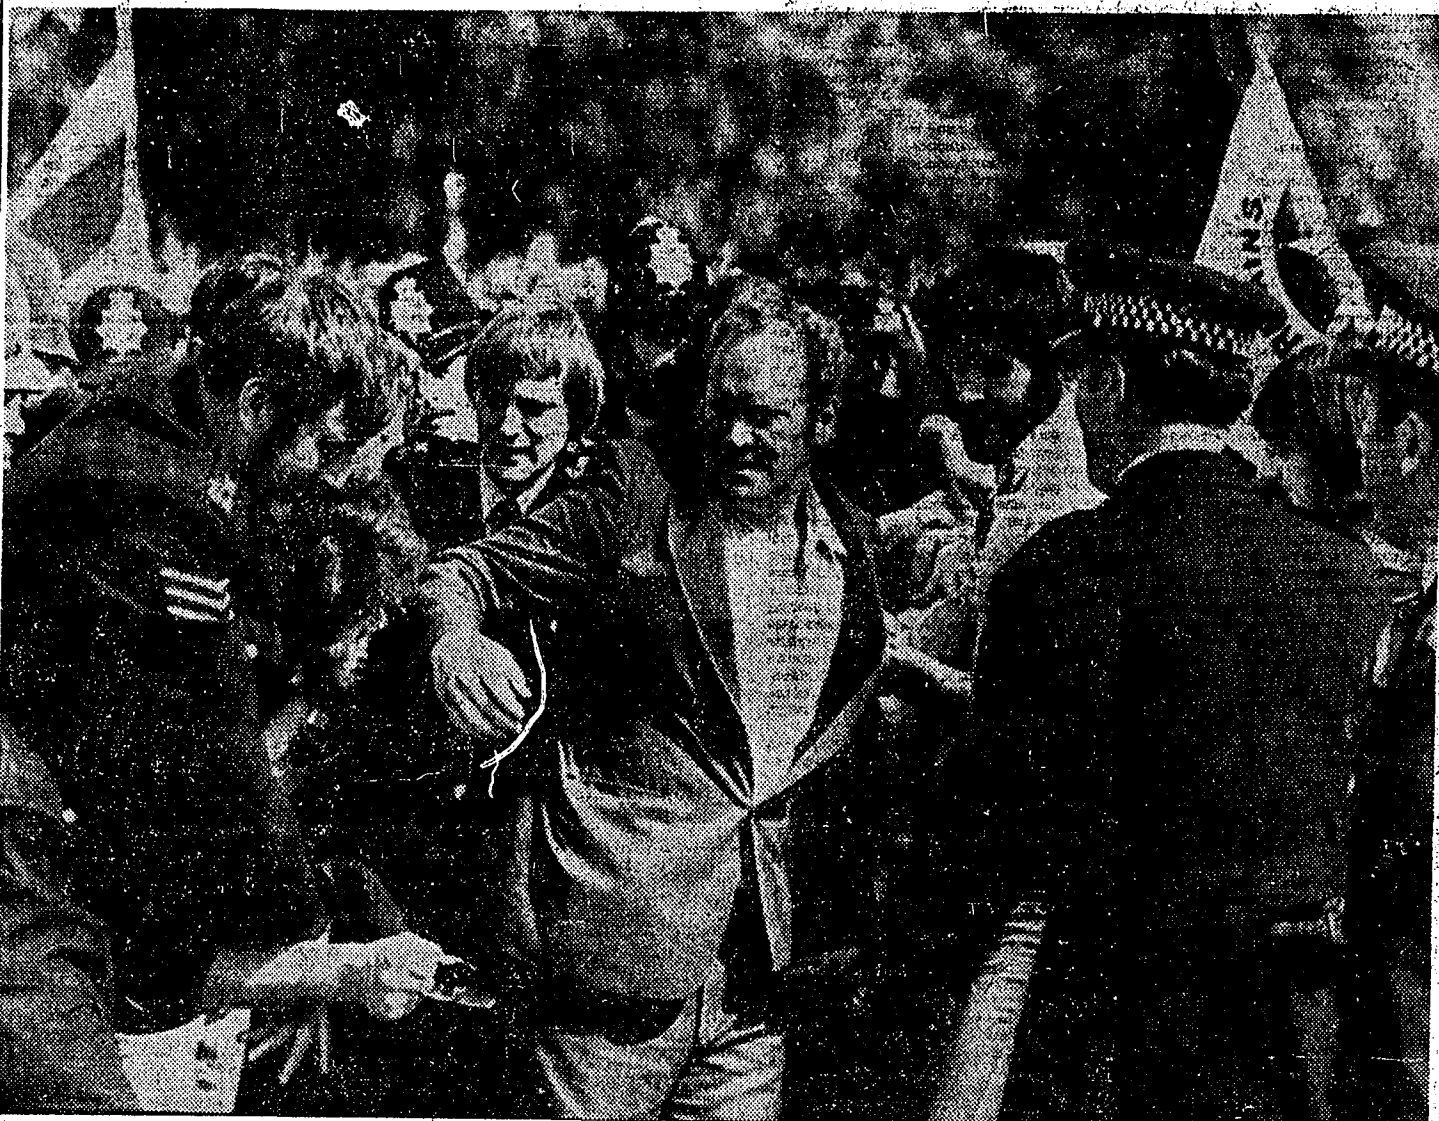

Topics to be covered during the week-long meeting include pre-paid legal insurance, decriminalization of prostitution, equal rights, election reform and genocide.

Viet Reds Pushed Back At Da Nang

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Government forces pushed Communist troops back one mile Sunday, field officers said. In one of their few advances in a month of trying to defend the approaches to Da Nang, South Vietnam's second city.

Soviet-built rockets hit in and around American-built Bien Hoa airfield, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, for the second day in a row Sunday but caused no casualties or damage, the Saigon command said. Shelling of the Bien Hoa region Saturday killed three people and wounded 11.

The new South Vietnamese drive Sunday covered a nine-mile front, officers said, in the 25-mile stretch of foothills between Da Nang and Thuong Duc, a district capital of 14,000 lost to North Vietnamese attackers last Wednesday.

INTERNMENT PROTEST — London police break up a protest in Hyde Park Sunday on the third anniversary of the internment regulations in Northern Ireland.

Some 20 people were arrested prior to a march through London that went off peacefully.

Jordan's King Will Be Ford's First Official Dinner Guest

SEATTLE (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan, in the first full day of a state visit to the United States, will be President Ford's first official dinner guest, the White House announced Sunday.

The king, invited to Washington by former President Nixon during his Middle East trip last June, will be guest of honor at a dinner Thursday night.

President and Mrs. Ford will host the dinner in the State Dining Room even before they have moved into the White House themselves.

Other state visitors, including Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, are expected to make official visits in September and later in the fall.

Hussein, 38, his wife Alla, Jordanian officials and representatives of the Boeing Co. arrived in a Boeing-owned 727 Trijet at Paine Field 20 miles north of Seattle Saturday afternoon.

The King and his party had spent several days in British Columbia attending the Abbotsford International Air Show—a great treat for Hussein, who is a flying enthusiast.

A Boeing spokesman said the King, a pilot for more than 20 years, would spend time in a Boeing 727 flight simulator here. He also was expected to make a pre-delivery flight in a 727 bought for his Royal Jordanian Airlines.

At Paine Field, media representatives were not allowed near the King. A double row of limousines and dark government sedans, plus a group of Secret Service agents, state troopers and Boeing security guards, formed a tight screen between the King and the public.

Hussein smiled and waved briefly before being whisked away in a motorcade to Seattle.

Hussein was to stay in a private home in Seattle before leaving for Washington, D.C., Wednesday or Thursday.

It was thought Hussein might meet with Norman Ray, a resident of Juanita along Lake Washington. The two have talked many times over ham radios, another of the King's interests.

Hussein's visit was being protested by Arab organizations at the University of Washington and Seattle University. A spokesman said they opposed oppression inside Jordan and a move by Hussein in 1970 which crushed a Palestinian revolt.

Hussein has said he supports the idea of a separate Israeli state and has worked hard to bring about a settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Nixon, Rebozo and Abplanalp are all responsible for the estate's mortgage. They were unable to meet a $226,000 "balloon payment" on the mortgage when it fell due last month and have secured an extension until January.

Nixon also was said to be anticipating potential legal action against him in connection with alleged charges of misconduct while he was president.

A federal grand jury in Washington last March named him as an indicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up and special prosecutor Leon Jaworski now is free to take steps against Nixon in his new capacity as a private citizen, possibly on grounds Nixon was involved in obstruction of justice.

An aide said Nixon was discussing such matters with associates and might retain a new lawyer to replace James D. St. Clair, the Boston trial attorney who headed Nixon's White House legal defense team.

Bus Robbery

"But about two minutes later another pounced on the lavatory door and shouted, 'We've got to get out of here!'" said Mats Grape, 24, also of Stockholm, Sweden.

The girl appeared calm until she broke down and wept after the hijackers got off the bus and sped away near Camarillo, he said.

"They were just hysterical and tense," said Grape. "They could have done anything. Two were only about 18 or 19 and they were the worst. The oldest one, about 22, was calmer."

"One pushed his gun into a man's chest and said, 'If I find any more money on you, I'll kill you, you . . .'"

"I really thought they would kill someone," added Franzen. One wore a yellow bowler hat, he said.

Franzen's brother, Vengt, 22, a television cameraman, said before the bus left Los Angeles, around midnight, the three had acted nervous and "moved around a lot" before taking seats.

"They asked a lot of questions about where the bus was going," said Vengt Franzen.

"I couldn't believe it, it was like a TV play," he said.

Frissell Walter, 32, an engineering teacher from Washington, D.C., said he was "scared, but it's not the first time for me. I was mugged a year ago and I haven't worn a watch or jewelry since."

The hijacking occurred about 10 minutes after the bus left Hollywood, he said.

"The bus was late leaving Los Angeles and they got on at the last minute," he said. "It might not have happened at all if the bus had taken off on time."

All of the passengers on the bus were taken to the sheriff's substation in Thousand Oaks where they were served food and refreshments before the bus continued on to San Francisco. Deputies said the girl who was assaulted did not require hospitalization.

Deputies described the getaway car as a dark green 1964 Pontiac which was believed heading for Los Angeles.

Talks To Avert RTD Strike Appear Remote

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Chances of a wage settlement between the Southern California Rapid Transit District and its bus drivers and mechanics appeared to be fading late Sunday. One union official indicated that if a strike were called, it could be a long one.

Earl R. Clark, general chairman of the United Transportation Union, said prospects for a settlement by the 12:01 A.M. deadline today "are not good." Negotiations were scheduled to resume at 9 p.m. Sunday in an effort to avert a walkout that would put the brakes on RTD operations in four Southern California counties.

Union officials said there was no "significant" progress made during talks earlier Sunday.

"We are seeking parity with other bus properties across the country and the District's refusal to budge from the decidedly low offer would seem to indicate this could be a lengthy strike," said Clark.

RTD representatives were to meet with officials of the 3,000 member United Transit Union, representing the drivers, and separately with the Amalgamated Transit Union, with 728 members.

The Kremlin "wrote off" President Nixon, say Russ Sources

LONDON (UPI) — The Kremlin "wrote off" President Nixon many months ago while pretending to ignore Watergate, qualified Communist sources claimed Sunday.

Soviet affairs specialists said the claim was made as a calculated whitewash of Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, who has been criticized by Communist hardliners for basing too much of Soviet foreign policy on his personal friendship with Nixon.

The Communist claim that the Kremlin downgraded Nixon in its calculations, if true, would be one way of explaining why Brezhnev shied away from major commitments at his summit meeting with Nixon in Moscow last June, especially arms limitations.

"We realized that the President's position was becoming increasingly difficult, and early this year all but wrote him off," a Communist source said.

Until Nixon resigned, any mention of Watergate in the controlled Communist media represented the attacks on Nixon as engineered by opponents of the policy of détente.

Some ranking Communists were reported to consider Brezhnev's friendship with Nixon an error of judgment. In recent years the Kremlin hierarchy has not hesitated to oust the No. 1 man for major mistakes of judgment.

The British, under Gen. William Howe, took Bunker Hill from the Americans on June 17, 1775.

Child Dies In Fall From Family Swing

PASADENA (UPI) — Tammy Lindsey, 8, was killed Saturday when the family swing set she was playing on toppled over and the crossbeam struck her on the head.

Police said Tammy was killed instantly.

The accident occurred as Tammy and her 13-year-old brother, Larry, were swinging on the unanchored set and had reached the highest point of their backwards arc at the same time when it toppled over.

Jaworski To Get Those Given OK

Sirica Ruling Expected On Tapes 'Privilege'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is continuing the arduous task of listening to the secret tapes of Richard M. Nixon, the Watergate legacy he left behind after a bitter and losing court battle.

Sirica was expected to rule some time today on several claims of executive privilege made by the departed President and to forward a number of the tapes to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski for possible use at the cover-up trial due to start a month from now.

Of the 64 tapes Jaworski subpoenaed last spring, Nixon surrendered 55 after the Supreme Court ordered him to. The other nine, the White House said, could not be found.

Sirica must listen to the tapes and decide which are relevant as evidence. He must also rule on Nixon's claims that some should still be kept secret on grounds of national security or executive privilege.

The judge already has sent Jaworski five of the tapes—all among those for which the White House released edited transcripts last April and for which no privilege claims were filed.

A spokesman for the judge said Sirica planned to work through the weekend. He listens, hour after hour, in a locked and windowless jury room near his chambers with only his law clerk present.

Defense attorneys in the cover-up case—in which six former key Nixon aides are charged with conspiracy—were expected to move today or Tuesday for a delay in the trial.

One defendant, John D. Ehrlichman, did so on Friday. He contended that "inflamed passions" from Nixon's last days in office make finding an impartial jury impossible.

Other defense lawyers were expected to make similar claims.

Even Jaworski might agree to a brief delay, perhaps a month, to give his legal team time to study the tapes. Sirica has opposed any postponement in the past, but it was not known how he might rule now in the light of last week's stunning events.

Since the trial is expected to last as long as three months before a sequestered jury, and judges are loathe to keep jurors locked up over the Christmas holidays, it was considered possible any delay would be either extremely brief or all the way into next year.

The White House tapes are an issue not only in Watergate-related cases but also in the ongoing trial of American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders growing out of the 1973 occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D. The defense has subpoenaed White House tapes of conversations allegedly dealing with the uprising.

Nixon claimed executive privilege in refusing to obey a court hearing is scheduled today in St. Paul, Minn., on whether to subpoena another batch.

AIM defense lawyers said over the weekend they were trying to find out who has custody of the tapes—Nixon or Ford—and would direct their subpoena accordingly.

Time Claims Pardons Sought From Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time magazine reports in its issue on newsstands today some of the defendants in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial sought pardons from ex-President Nixon in the last days of his administration.

The Time article says, "All last week negotiations went on between lawyers of some cover-up defendants and the White House in the hopes of arranging a pardon." It quoted a source close to one defendant as saying Nixon refused to do anything.

Among the defendants in the trial, scheduled to start in three weeks, are John Mitchell, John Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman.

NEWSWEEK SAYS

Contents Of Tapes Leaked To Wiggins

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the final week of his presidency, President Nixon's aides leaked contents of the damaging June 23, 1972 tape to Rep. Charles Wiggins (R-Calif.) as a "device" to force Nixon to recognize the "dangers crowding in around him," Newsweek magazine reported Sunday.

The magazine said significance of the tape of the conversation in which Nixon and H. R. Haldeman discussed restraining the FBI's investigation of the Watergate break-in was first discovered by presidential attorney J. Fred Buzhardt in preparing the tapes for delivery to Judge John Sirica.

Newsweek said Buzhardt called the tape to the attention of presidential aide Alexander Haig and attorney James St. Clair, and the three decided to reveal the contents to Wiggins, who had been one of Nixon's chief supporters in the House Judiciary Committee. The magazine said the three men anticipated correctly what Wiggins' reaction would be—the "threat to go public unless the President did first."

Newsweek said Haig informed Nixon of this situation in an all-day meeting Sunday during which the two were closeted alone at Camp David.

It said Nixon "beggared for more time—just a month more, to arrange an orderly exit or to devise some new strategy for his trial."

But, it said, Haig told him the tape had to be published because "Wiggins, for one thing, knew about them and would talk if the White House did not" and because St. Clair "would be forced to quit if they were kept secret." It said Nixon finally agreed to the publication of the tapes on Monday, "a decision that, as his people surely knew, was to seal his fate."

Goldwater Believed Nixon Was 'Too Mule Headed' To Resign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon made up his own mind to resign the presidency, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Sunday.

Goldwater, speaking to reporters after a half-hour review of possible vice presidential candidates with President Ford, also told reporters in front of the White House that he had not believed Nixon would step down because "he's too mule headed."

The Arizona senator said he is convinced that what Nixon's chief of staff Alexander Haig has said is right—that Nixon made up his own mind.

Goldwater told reporters: "I think the family represented the biggest obstacle."

Haig has been highly incensed at reports that he helped bring about the resignation through secret negotiations with Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer James D. St. Clair, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and three senior Republicans in Congress.

Reports that he "belled the cat" were described by Haig to a UPI reporter as "totally inaccurate."

Haig's role may have been more subtle in his own view but the White House noted that he was the only one, with the exception of Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, in constant contact with Nixon throughout his final days of decision.

Officials said Ziegler was

There were published reports that Nixon was forced to make public the transcripts on the June 23, 1972, tapes which revealed his role in the Watergate cover-up under the threat of a mass resignation by St. Clair and his legal team.

Goldwater said he believes Nixon already had made up his mind by the time he, Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott and House Republican leader John J. Rhodes visited him.

"We told the truth," Goldwater said. "It was an impossible case."

"Frankly, I did not think he would do it," Goldwater said. "I know him too well. He's too mule headed."

OC Cities League Seeks Offshore Drilling Curb

By STAN OFTELIE
Register Staff Writer

ORANGE—The Orange County League of Cities wants the federal government to "either backtrack or slow down on a decision which could lead to offshore oil drilling in county coastal waters."

A resolution passed by the League last week criticizes the federal decision to open lease areas on the Southern California Continental Shelf for oil and natural gas exploration.

The league specifically cited the federal government's failure to contact local officials or to test local sentiment in Southern California before asking oil companies to bid on the underwater areas adjacent to state tidelands.

In part, the league's resolution says: "...the announced plans to provide new oil drilling in the Continental Shelf off the coast of Southern California should be strongly opposed at this time and that the United States Department of Interior be urged to hold regional hearings throughout the state."

Newport Beach Mayor Don McInnis, who proposed and argued in support of the resolution, also said the possibility of oil spills, increased earthquake activity and other environmental concerns should be considered before drilling is permitted.

McInnis said the interior department had failed to consider these and a number of other critical factors before taking the first steps towards renewed offshore oil drilling.

Among the factors he ticked off:

—Future impact of Alaskan oil development on the North Slope;

—Liability of the interior department in case of a blowout during oilfield production;

—Conservation of the offshore oilfield as a "last resort" in case of greater fuel crises in the future;

—Lack of local input;

—Impact the drilling will have on the Orange County coastline.

In a 22-2 vote supporting McInnis and the Newport Beach resolution critical of the federal government, the cities suggested a five-part program be implemented before any drilling takes place. Placentia and Los Alamitos opposed the plan. Two cities were not present.

The league plan, which was described by one mayor in an offhand remark as a bid "to study this thing to death," suggests no offshore drilling areas be opened or federal lease be granted until:

One official estimated it would take a minimum of three years before the first oil derrick could be raised off the county coastline if there are serious objections from elected officials, homeowners or environmental groups.

If court tests and administrative roadblocks are thrown into the time schedule, he said the first oil could be pumped out of the Continental Shelf no earlier than 1985.

The Western Oil and Gas Association estimates there are 14 billion barrels of oil under California's submerged offshore lands.

Israelis Plan 'Test' Call-Up

By United Press International

Israel said Sunday it will conduct a one-day, nationwide call-up of military reservists to test its mobilization procedures in the event of renewed war with the Arabs.

In Cairo, government officials said Egypt's Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy will pay close attention to congressional relations during his visit to Washington starting today because of Congress's increased strength in the wake of Watergate.

The Israeli cabinet said in Jerusalem that Defense Minister Shimon Peres ordered the military call-up "to test the efficiency of the method of mobilizing the reserves." No date was specified.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin reassured the cabinet that President Ford will continue former President Nixon's Middle East peace policies, the government said.

Government officials in Cairo said Egypt had received the same assurances about U.S. intentions.

The most heartening indicator of Ford's Middle East policy has been his retention of Henry A. Kissinger as secretary of state, the officials said.

The assurances came just before Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy's arrival in Washington for a week-long official visit to discuss U.S.

nuclear aid to Egypt and the resumption of Arab-Israeli peace talks in Geneva later this year.

Fahmy is scheduled to meet with Ford, Kissinger, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon during his visit, which was set up during Nixon's visit to Egypt last June.

The officials said Fahmy will make a point of "cultivating" Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress because of its greater strength after the Watergate crisis and the existence of strong pro-Israel sentiment among many members.

Egypt also wants to insure the necessary congressional approval of transfer of American nuclear materials and technology to Egypt, the officials said.

The United States agreed to extend nuclear cooperation to both Egypt and Israel during Nixon's June Middle East tour.

On Saturday, the Israeli navy sank an Arab guerrilla craft off the Israeli-Lebanese frontier in the first reported guerrilla sortie by water since June 24.

The Israeli command said one of its patrol boats sank a rubber dinghy carrying guerrillas toward northern Israel on an apparent raiding mission. The command said no bodies were recovered.

EPA Ban Spurs Hunt For New Pesticides

By United Press International

Farmers are searching for substitutes to combat crop-damaging pests in the wake of an Environmental Protection Agency ban on production of the two most widely used pesticides for health reasons.

Although this year's yield does not appear to be in trouble, farmers are worried about the future because of the EPA order prohibiting further use of aldrin and dieldrin due to possible danger of cancer and other illnesses.

The two pesticides, manufactured solely by Shell Chemical Co., are mostly used around such crops as corn but have also been applied for termite control and mothproofing.

At North Carolina State University agriculture department entomologist said in a paper that in the state dieldrin was used to control pests in apple orchards while aldrin was used for termites, billbugs in corn, ants, grasshoppers, grubs, leafhoppers and spittlebugs on golf courses, cemeteries and other forms of commercial turf.

Dr. Harry Moore of NCS said that chlordane, a highly volatile insecticide, was a "perfectly adequate substitute" for aldrin for termites and turf uses. But he said the substance already costs more than aldrin and dieldrin and would probably become even more costly as demand increased.

A colleague, Dr. John Falter, said corn growers have no suitable substitute for aldrin used to control billbugs, a member of the weevil family which destroys the roots of cereal crops.

A spot check by United Press International indicates that farmers are thinking mostly about next year.

Indiana Farm Bureau Vice President Glenn W. Sample said, "It is late in the year to be applying aldrin and dieldrin now but in another year we will have to turn to other substances... We do not see at this time that the EPA order will have any effect on the present crops."

In California's lush San Joaquin Valley, the ban will have almost no effect.

Otis Lea, district sales representative for the Shell Chemical Co., said aldrin was not used there. Fred Machado, president of the Fresno County Farm Bureau, said he found no evidence of concern among local growers.

WATERLOGGED — Temperatures in the high 80s drove thousands of Tokyo residents into the mammoth swimming pool at the Korakuen Amusement Park, downtown, to escape the heat. But however big the pool, it wasn't big enough for the crowds seeking relief. Many sat hopefully by the side of the pool ready to move in as soon as someone else moved out. But many more decided to go home and cool off under the hose in the backyard. (UPI Telephoto)

'WATERGATE STILL ISSUE'

GOP Governors Map Strategy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican governors and gubernatorial candidates met Sunday to map strategy aimed at recovering some of the seats lost to Democrats in the past four years.

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, told a news conference that Watergate "probably would be an issue."

But "at the same time," he said, "I was glad to see President Nixon resign after the evidence against him became clear. I hope his action cleared the air so that the governors races can be carried out on current issues, such as inflation; employment and educational opportunities, for instance."

Dunn noted that in 1967 Republican governors outnumbered Democrats 32-18 and that the figure is now the same in favor of Democrats.

"We're determined to make this year a start toward eroding that Democratic advantage and increasing the number of Republican governors," he said.

"Our strategy, beyond the actual nuts and bolts campaign work, will be basically simple—to go to the voter with the best program for the people."

Sixteen gubernatorial nominees or potential nominees were on hand for the one-day gathering, Dunn said.

Governors at the meeting were Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, James E. Holshouser Jr. of North Carolina, and Dunn.

Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller addressed a session on land use, drug abuse and campaign research.

Arriving at O'Hare International Airport, Rockefeller refused to discuss the choice of a vice president. He said he would not bring it up at his session.

"I don't think it's fair to President Ford to discuss this problem at this time," he said.

National party chairman George Bush had been scheduled to attend but was unable to come to Chicago because of business in Washington, Dunn said.

Dunn said that the governors have been given a Wednesday deadline by President Ford to submit their recommendations for a vice president. He declined to disclose his recommendation.

Dunn said money flowing into Republican headquarters, "though small at this point," indicates there will be ample financial backing for the party's upcoming campaigns.

Hoboes Crown Man Who Can't Get Around Much Any More

BRITT, Iowa (UPI) — The wandering delegates to the 1974 National Hobo Convention hit the roads and rails Sunday, pledging their allegiance to a new "king" and the "Code of the Road."

The hobos had spent several days in this north central Iowa town of 2,400, known as "Hobo Town, USA." They feasted on mulligan stew, swapped tales and chose a new monarch on Saturday to climax the gathering.

The new king is "Slow Motion Shorty," a 59-year old vagabond from Rochelle, Ill., who was selected by applause of the crowd of about 6,000.

One of the traditions to be carried out by the king during his year is visiting veterans' hospitals during his travels.

Calling on shut-ins is part of the hoboes' "Code of the Road."

Last year's king, "Steam Train Maury" Graham of Toledo, Ohio, visited 34,000 veterans during his wanderings and said he got to every veterans' hospital in the nation.

The ex-king thanked the crowd for the "most adventurous year of my life."

"I'm going to work steady for six months to pay back my travel debts," the eloquent and nattily dressed "Steam Train" said.

Graham also told the crowd and the 11 competing hobos, "Every man should get to be king. I'd like to see a new one for every year for the next five years."

Police Admit They're Partial To Presidents

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Police manned several intersections along the route from the White House to President Ford's Alexandria residence Sunday to speed his evening trip home to dinner.

"We're just stopping the traffic for a minute if the light is red" when Ford's car approaches, Lt. Jerry Shockley said. "If it's green we just let him go on through."

"It's nothing special. We're simply helping the President get home, and we'd do the same for you if you were President," he told a reporter.

He said the twice-a-day procedure would end when Ford moves to the White House. Meanwhile, small groups of people joined police at some intersections to get a view of the new President as he passed.

At large were Richard McCoy, 31, Provo, Utah, convicted of the 1972 hijacking of a United Airlines jetliner; Joseph Havel, 60, Philadelphia; Larry L. Bagley, 36, of Iowa; and Melvin D. Walker, 35, Morley, Mo., all convicted bank robbers.

"When you evaluate this escape things just don't add up. Things just don't smell right," said associate warden William C. Bones.

HIJACKER AMONG THEM

Jailbreakers Vanish 'Without A Rustle'

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A federal prison official said Sunday four escaped convicts, including an airline hijacker, remained at-large and "there wasn't even a leaf rustling" to give law officers any hint where they were.

The search for the inmates, who escaped Saturday by commandeering a garbage truck and smashing it through two penitentiary gates here, was being conducted in a remote, mountainous section of central Pennsylvania.

At large were Richard McCoy, 31, Provo, Utah, convicted of the 1972 hijacking of a United Airlines jetliner; Joseph Havel, 60, Philadelphia; Larry L. Bagley, 36, of Iowa; and Melvin D. Walker, 35, Morley, Mo., all convicted bank robbers.

"When you evaluate this escape things just don't add up. Things just don't smell right," said associate warden William C. Bones.

Bones said the three bank robbers had all attempted to escape before and had extra terms added to their original sentences because of the attempts.

He described McCoy as a "mediocre" prisoner who hadn't had any disciplinary action taken against him since he was transferred here in August, 1972. McCoy was serving a 45-year term for air piracy.

Another Sinking Jails Man Who Sank Indianapolis

TOKYO (UPI) — A Japanese merchant ship captain under arrest for negligence in a sea accident was identified Sunday as the World War II Japanese submarine skipper who sank the American cruiser USS Indianapolis with the loss of 880 lives.

He is Mochitsuki Hashimoto, 64, who himself testified in the 1945 court-martial of the Indianapolis skipper for negligence. Now Hashimoto is facing prosecution as the result of a collision in Japan's Inland Sea in which 24 Korean sailors were drowned July 28.

On that date, Hashimoto was master of the 12,200-ton Kikuko Maru, a Japanese freighter bound for Los Angeles with a cargo of automobiles. It collided with the Western Star, of Liberian registry. Only two members of the Western Star's crew of 26 Korean seamen survived when their ship went down.

The collision came two days short of the 29th anniversary of the sinking of the Indianapolis by Hashimoto's submarine, I-58, in the Philippine Sea.

One of the heaviest American naval losses of the war, it occurred only two weeks before Japan's surrender.

The Indianapolis was sighted on a bright moonlight night. Lt. Hashimoto, commanding the I-58, bracketed the cruiser with six torpedoes, several of which struck home.

The great cruiser's hurried distress call was lost in a Navy communications foulup, delaying the arrival of rescue ships and planes.

The Indianapolis had just delivered critical parts for history's first atom bomb to the Marianas Islands. The bomb was detonated over Hiroshima a week after the ship was sunk.

By the time Hashimoto got the I-58 back to Japan, the war was over.

In an unprecedented move, whose propriety is still debated by Navy men, Hashimoto was flown to Washington late in 1945 to testify at the court-martial of the Indianapolis's skipper, Capt. C.B. McVay III.

On the basis of Hashimoto's testimony, McVay was convicted of failing to zig-zag his ship as a precaution against submarine attack.

After the war Hashimoto drifted through several jobs. He was employed as a freighter master six years ago.

He had completed a long voyage and was due for two months rest, but agreed to take over the Kikuko Maru because of a manpower emergency. The collision occurred the night the ship left Hiroshima for Los Angeles.

The story of Hashimoto's past was pieced together and published Sunday by a Japanese news magazine.

Maddox Labels KKK Support 'Dirty Tricks'

Gov. LESTER MADDOX, a front-runner in Tuesday's Georgia gubernatorial primary, said Sunday he suspects "dirty tricks" are behind an apparent endorsement of his candidacy by the Ku Klux Klan. In a telegram delivered to UPI, Maddox and J.B. STONER, who is running for lieutenant governor, were singled out as the "best candidates who will fight for return to true Americanism." It was signed by James Lumpkins, who identified himself as the Georgia grand dragon of the National Knights of Ku Klux Klan.

Sen. BARRY GOLDWATER, R-Ariz., Sunday in Washington offered a solution to the nation's monetary inflation problem: a 10 per cent cut in federal salaries, starting with President Ford's $200,000 a year. In suggesting the 10 per cent cut, he also would include congressmen's pay and the salaries of "my pet - the military. I don't know any other step to control monetary inflation," said Goldwater.

The chief mechanic for EVEL KNEIVEL says the stunt rider's planned motorcycle jump over Idaho's Snake River Canyon isn't suicidal, he just wants people to think it is. "People think he's nuts. He isn't," said ROGER REIMAN, 35, also a well-known motorcycle rider. "He's a very smart man and he knows what he's doing."

The national chairman of the American Independent Party said Sunday in Chicago former President RICHARD NIXON should not be granted immunity from prosecution for his role in the Watergate coverup. "I feel great compassion for Mr. Nixon personally," said party chairman WILLIAM SHEARER, a publisher from Lemon Grove, Calif., "but I do not believe in amnesty for the greatest offender when so many of the smaller offenders are in prison or awaiting punishment."

Rock Festival Draws Too Many Fans For Proper Drug Control

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — So many fans — police estimate 230,000 — turned up for an "August jam" rock concert that authorities barely made any drug arrests although clouds of marijuana smoke were heavy in the air. Although the concert at the Charlotte Motor Speedway was over early Sunday, police said about 100,000 fans were still on the grounds at daybreak. Carbarus County officials said they struggled out during the day trying to find their cars, many of which had been towed away from private property where they were illegally parked. About 75 persons were arrested during the concert, most of them on drug charges, and 131 persons were treated for drug overdoses and injuries at Cabarrus Memorial Hospital. There were no reports of serious injuries, police said.

"In all, I guess as many as 75 people have been arrested, all on drug related charges. We couldn't make that many arrests because of the size of the crowd," said Sheriff's Deputy Rick Stencil.

Stencil said many of those trying to find their way from the track were "confused about finding their cars and trying to find ways out of the speedway to get to their homes."

U.S. Patients 'Not Ready' For Acupuncture

DALLAS (UPI) — A University of Texas Southwestern Medical School professor recently returned from China says acupuncture will not be a fully recognized method of surgical pain relief in this country for a long time.

"Acupuncture works well in China with Chinese doctors and skilled Chinese practitioners," Dr. M. T. Jenkins, chairman of the medical school's department of anesthesiology, said.

The physician also said acupuncture anesthesia was misnamed.

"Not even the Chinese represent it to be anesthesia," he said.

He said it more properly could be defined as analgesia — reduced perception of pain while the patient is still awake. "It is used in only a small percentage of total surgical cases by the Chinese — perhaps as much as 15 per cent of all surgery," he said.

Jenkins said the procedure probably wouldn't be used in the United States for some time because "it was doubted acupuncture analgesia would be accepted by Western patients who tend to have relatively lower pain thresholds than their Oriental brethren."

"It also seems the Western surgeons will demand quieter, more relaxed patients," he said.

Mercury's Capri gives you great mileage, great resale value, and a price that hasn't gone up in 1974.

While prices of just about everything have gone up in 1974 and your dollar is buying you less...Capri's price hasn't gone up at all. It's still a great buy.

Great Mileage

32.4 MPG. In a 379-mile highway test through Arizona and California, supervised by General Environments Corporation, a 4-cylinder Capri with standard engine and transmission delivered the kind of gas mileage you'd like to get—32.4.

The car was broken in the equivalent of 6,000 miles and driven by a non-professional driver, never exceeding 50 MPH. You yourself might have actually averaged less, or for that matter, more! Because mileage varies according to maintenance, equipment, total weight, driving habits and road conditions. And no two drivers, or even cars, are exactly the same. So stop in at your Lincoln-Mercury dealer's, and see what kind of Capri mileage you get.

Great resale and sales success

If you care about resale value, a '71 and '72 Capri have sold for more than they did a year ago. That's based on a recent national average of NADA prices. And... in its first four years in America, Capri, the sexy European, sold more cars than any other import in history.

Here's another interesting fact.

For the third year in a row, Capri has won the "Best Super Coupe" category in Car & Driver's Readers' Choice Poll. Come drive your own Capri home today.

And look what the Sexy European comes with standard!

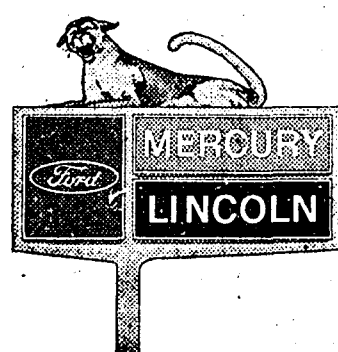

- 2000 cc OHC 4-cylinder engine
- Steel-belted radial ply tires
- Rack and pinion steering
- Power front disc brakes
- Full instrumentation—tachometer, speedometer with trip odometer, gauges for fuel, engine temperature, oil pressure and battery charging
- Five-position reclining bucket seats in glove-soft vinyl
- 4-speed manual stick shift—fully synchronized, floor mounted
- Styled steel wheels
- Front and rear stabilizer bars
- Impact-resistant front and rear bumper system
- Dual headlights
- Backup lights
- Loop-pile carpeting
- Padded sun visors
- Flow-Thru ventilation
- 35 of the same type of Lifeguard Safety Features that come with every Lincoln-Mercury big car.

Husband-Proof Hair-do's Goal of Mr. Reginald

"A husband should be able to run his hand through his wife's hair, without ruining an expensive coiffure," is MR. REGINALD'S almost explosive way of expressing his belief in natural looking, easy-to-care-for hair with "shape" cut in rather than set in.

MR. REGINALD has been snipping away at women's crowning glory for 20 years and garnering, at the same time, a bevy of hairdressing awards (which he considers of very little importance).

"Hair styling awards show only the hairdresser's technique," he says. "Awards are usually given for fantastic effects, that are impossible to keep up and are never to be seen on the head of a really chic woman."

Retain Its Shape.
"The average woman has only two days a week with her hair set . . . the other five without. Her hair should be cut in a way that she can easily manage that 'unset' five without looking like a haystack . . . or spending six hours wrapped in ugly rollers to look pretty for two hours in the evening."

"Properly cut, hair will retain its shape regardless of set. It can look beautiful with no artificial buildup," says MR. REGINALD who is a formidable foe of teasing and abundant hair spray.

"In Paris today, you will not see a single smart woman wearing an exaggerated hairdo. The notion that these make a frame for the face or make a woman look younger is nonsense. It is the right cut that accomplishes this. It is 'cheating' for a hair dresser to depend on teasing and manipulating for shape."

Mrs. "R" and Tricia.
The use of a razor in hair cutting really draws the ire of this valuable stylist, to whom scissors are a way of life. As his deft hands carefully sectioned and flicked scissors through a lock of blond hair he explained how a razor damages hair.

"Razors slice and expose too much of the hair shaft . . . it is like breaking the stem of a flower. Blunt cuts, with scissors, are best. It takes time to cut hair properly as each head of hair is as individual as a thumbprint . . . and should be treated as such."

MR. REGINALD also believes that long hair should be trimmed regularly to keep it growing, in good condition and free from breaking or falling out. "Long hair must have shape to make it fall beautifully in place . . . even when dressed high on the head."

Longer, swinging hair, so beloved of teenagers and currently shown in fashion magazines, is as carefully sectioned and cut as even the shortest style when MR. REGINALD takes his shears to it.

"A really fine haircut should be versatile and not be dependent on a single style. It can be brushed, styled in any manner," he said, as with lightning like brush strokes he quick-changed a fringy casual hairdo to one of off-the-face elegance.

It is not difficult to create hairstyles for these great beauties or the very young. The challenge I like best is to create a flattering, youthful and easy-to-care-for style which adds elegance to the average woman," he said.

Mr. Reginald has just returned from the International Hair Stylist Show in Paris. He is very much in favor with the small head, short hair look which is popular all over Europe. Parisienne women do the most with what they have. If a woman is middle-aged she dresses her age but always feminine and well groomed. Her coiffure is a simple, well shaped frame for her face. It is never over powering or stiff looking. Mr. Reginald says all women are beautiful, no matter what age she is as long as she accents her femininity.

Passage Seen On Health Care Bill This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A panel of officials agreed Sunday that national medical insurance in some form would be enacted in Congress this year.

Three members of Congress plus the present secretary of health, education and welfare and one of his predecessors predicted in a television discussion (Meet the Press—NBC) that some form of compromise health care legislation would be enacted before the end of the current session.

Only the doctor on the panel disagreed. Dr. Russell B. Roth of the American Medical Association said, "I have the feeling the country is not ready for it yet."

The panel members, with brief descriptions of the proposals they favor, follow:

—HEW Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the Nixon administration bill remains a high priority item for the new President. It provides a mixture of federal protection against catastrophic illness and heavy reliance on private insurance programs.

—Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, co-sponsor with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., of a so-called "compromise bill" to make health insurance compulsory to guarantee that medical care—with some limitations—is available to all American families regardless of income.

—Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., author of a comprehensive medical health care bill which would "treat all Americans alike" and would be financed by a 1 per cent tax on individuals plus 3 per cent tax on employers, or a flat 2.5 per cent levy on the self-employed.

—Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, co-sponsor with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff D-Conn., of legislation which would provide federal financing of health care for the poor and protection against catastrophic illness for all.

—Former HEW secretary Wilbur J. Cohen, who believes in comprehensive coverage but said it should be phased in over a five-year period to reduce the inflationary impact.

—Roth, spokesman for the AMA program involving insurance scaled to the economic level of recipients plus protection against catastrophic costs exceeding 10 per cent of a family's income, and no fixed fees for doctors.

Mills' committee is working on a health care bill which he predicted would include the best features of all the proposals. Asked if it could be passed this year, he said "definitely, yes."

"I Was So Struck By Her," Recalls Tom Knight

ITT To Install Phone System In Tustin Center

TUSTIN—International Telephone and Telegraph has been authorized to install the $102,184 civic center telephone system instead of Stromberg-Carlson Communications Inc., as previously planned.

The city council authorized the change after Dan Blankenship, assistant city administrator, said contract negotiations between the city and Stromberg-Carlson had reached an impasse.

The firm has retreated from providing a legally enforceable maintenance back-up guarantee on the equipment, he said, and has refused to enter into a lease that can be assigned to the Bank of America.

Both provisions had been previously agreed to by Stromberg-Carlson Inc., he said.

Plaque Marks Spot Where Love Struck At First Sight

PARIS (UPI) — Travellers have long used the American Express mail room near the Paris opera as a post office or shelter from the rain. But a copper plaque above the water fountain shows it was more for Tom Knight and Kathleen Knight.

On Aug. 20, 1952, Knight, then 22, of Newark, N.J., loped into the basement mail room to look for letters from home.

His striking wife, originally from Sewickley, Pa., said, "I invited him to our hotel for a drink and I told mother he might appear on a motorcycle in a black leather jacket."

"He appeared in a white linen jacket. We found out we had mutual friends. I had just graduated from Bryn Mawr and he from Princeton. Mother gave us the high sign it was okay to go out so we did."

"We went out every night for a week, to little restaurants on the left bank, the opera, the Louvre museum," Knight said.

"I would have married her a half hour after meeting her but she wasn't sure. So I went to Korea and she went to work in Washington."

"Years later I saw her at a football game in Princeton. Twelve days later we were engaged. Six months later disengaged. Finally married in 1965."

Three weeks ago, his college friend, Stephen Halsey, an American Express vice-president, decided to hang a plaque in the mailroom and flew the Knights to Paris.

Over the water fountain now hangs the copper plaque engraved with two clasped hands and the words, "TSK and KCC met on this spot Aug. 20, 1952. Quel Bonheur" (such happiness).

The Knights found Paris the same after 22 years, almost.

"I used to pay about 20 francs ($4) for those dinners for two here. Last night it was 200 francs (about $45)," Knight said.

He spotted Kathleen, a 21-year-old brunette, standing in line in a raincoat and black dress with a red and white bow. "I was struck by her," he remembers. "I'm a great believer in chemistry."

One marriage, four children and nearly 22 years later, Tom and Kathy Knight, now of Greenwich, Conn., flew back to Paris last week to that same mail room for a case of love-at-first-sight revisited.

Knight, a tall and tousle-haired executive for a New York advertising agency, said with a grin, "I got in line next to her just as an excuse to strike up a conversation. I asked her for a date."

3,900 Free Throws Fail To Net Basketball Record

CINCINNATI (UPI) — At 6 a.m. (EDT) Saturday Boyd Lynch knew it was hopeless.

He had been shooting free throws for 21 straight hours in his attempt to break the world's record for basketball free throw shooting accuracy over a 24-hour period.

"With three hours to go my arm just completely gave out," said the lanky, exhausted 26-year-old, who made 88.8 per cent of his 3,900 shots.

"And then I got some bad news. A guy with a calculator told me I needed to shoot 800 more shots and hit 98 per cent of them to reach the record. At that point, there was just no way."

So, the record still belongs to free-throw freak Ted St. Martin of Yakima, Wa. The Guinness Book of World Records states that Martin owns the mark with a 90.4 per cent average over 24 hours, although Martin says he recently upped the record to 90.7 per cent.

But Lynch, a 6-8 former Eastern Kentucky University star from Lexington, Ky., gave it a gallant try before conceding defeat. He started shooting at 9 a.m. Friday on the tiny gymnasium floor at a suburban Milford, Ohio, school. "I started off like a ball of fire—hitting about 94 or 95 per cent the first six hours," said Lynch, who shoots a soft, right-handed push shot.

Then I got tired and my concentration slipped. I started missing more shots. My arm felt like lead. It was hard as a rock. Almost every shot I missed was because it was short. I couldn't get them up."

Allowed five minutes per hour to rest, Lynch consumed 10 cans of soda, a gallon of tea and numerous cups of coffee and candy bars during the 21 hours. He also chewed away on a half dozen king-size packs of chewing gum during the ordeal.

Lynch several times hit 50 straight without a miss, and his best string was 85. His longest missing streak was three.

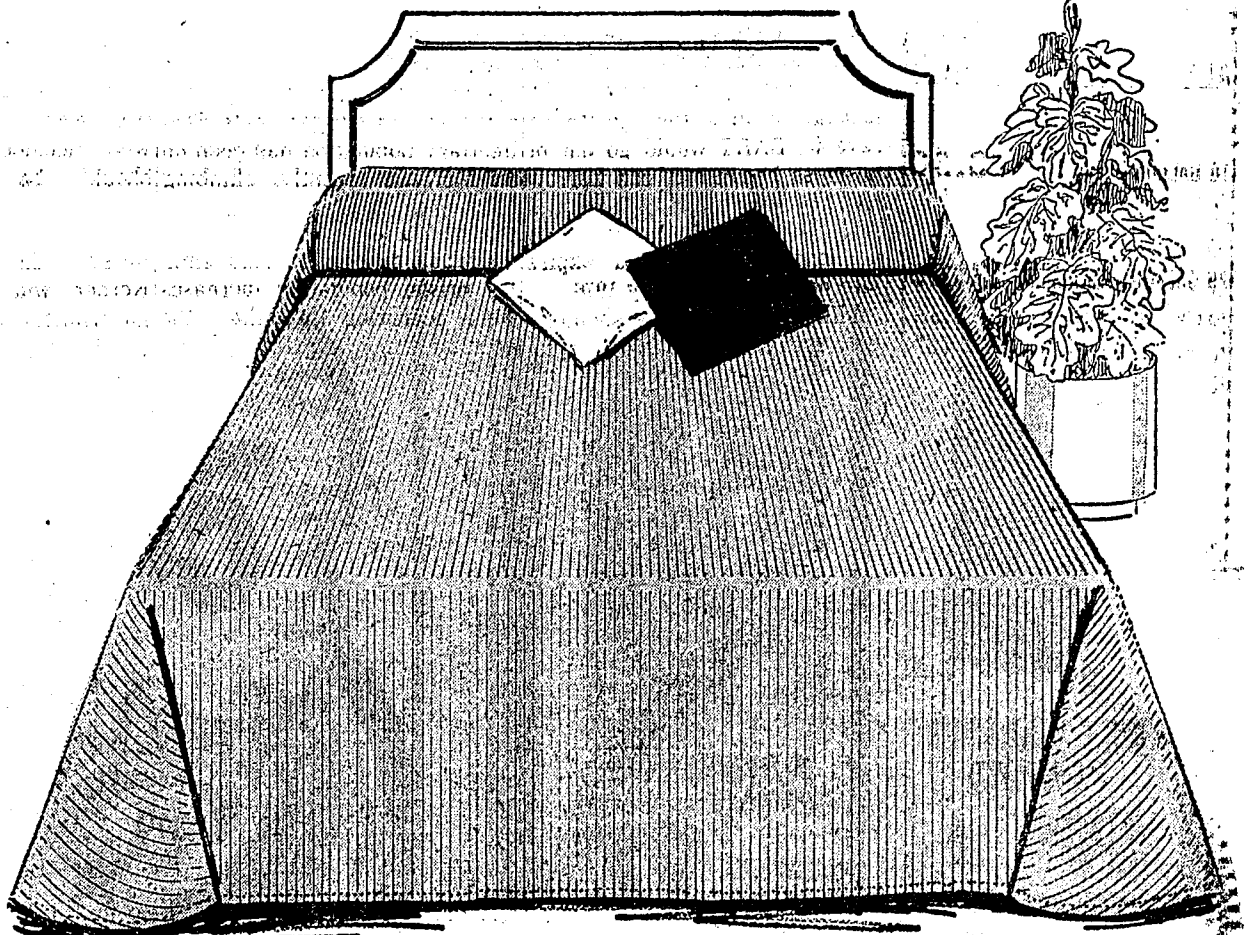

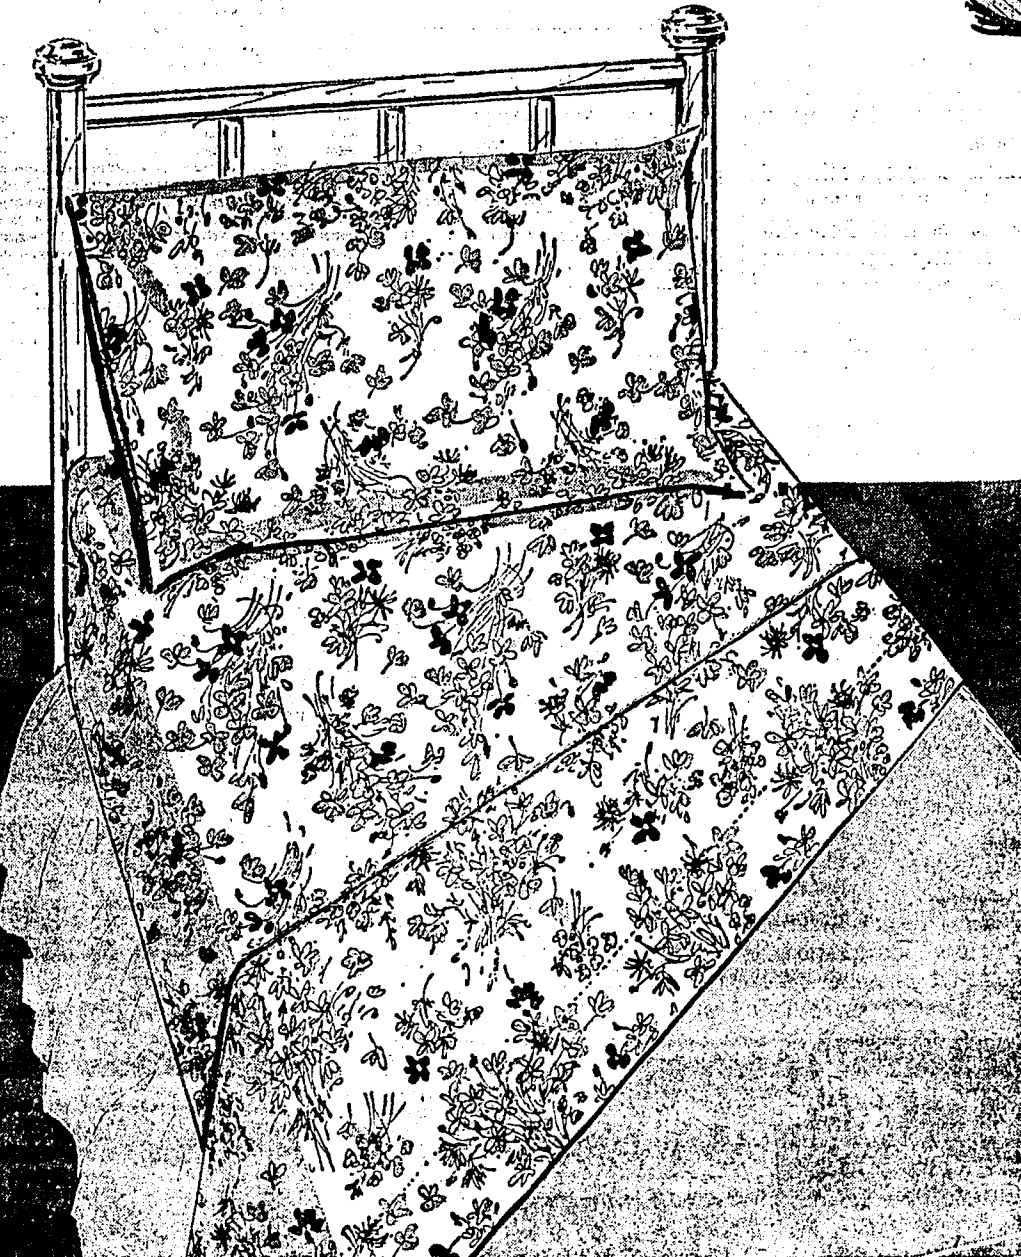

Just a few days ago St. Martin claimed the consecutive record with 315 straight in El Paso, Tex., but there is a report that one Harold "Bunny" Levitt hit 499 in a row back in 1935. He apparently choked when he tried for No. 500.

"I'm going to try for the record again," vowed Lynch. "I don't know when, but I'll be back."

tan E.G. Krogius to rejoin the board of directors.

The consultant firm of Herman-Smith Associates was hired in the midst of the hospital's financial and managerial problems, which includes a debt of some $6 million for new building and development programs.

Board treasurer David Witling said the consultant firm comes with "impressive recommendations" from other hospitals who have used the company's services.

At the same time, hospital controller Joseph Armon's resignation has been accepted by the board effective in September.

Krogius could not be reached for comment on whether he would return to the board of directors. He resigned two weeks ago saying he had been spending "an inordinate amount of time away from business and family," working on the hospital's financial problems. He added then, "As my advice has not been heeded and my solutions have not been acceptable. I will not accept responsibility for the unnecessary financial plight of the institution."

A press conference to air the hospital's management problems, requested by newspapers covering the hospital's activities, has been called for Thursday to discuss financial and management problems. Expected to participate are new board president Arthur Briggs, Whitling, trustee William White and Dr. Anthony Orlandella.

Family Of 8 Killed In Plane Crash

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (UPI) — All eight members of a New Jersey family en route to a central Minnesota Bible camp were killed Saturday night when their small plane crashed during an emergency landing at the Fergus Falls airport.

Otter Tail County Sheriff Carleton Mortenson said the twin engine Piper Aztec, piloted by Dr. Louis M. Kuhn, a prominent heart and blood specialist, was unable to land at Alexandria, Minn., because of poor visibility.

The Fergus Falls fire department and sheriff's deputies were on the scene when the plane crashed about 1,000 feet east of the runway in a soybean field.

Planners Okay Quail Hatchery

ANAHEIM—Planning commissioners have voted 5-2 to permit the operation of a quail hatchery for one year on three acres at 1801½ and 1809½ Orangethorpe Park.

According to Hank Bogardus, president of Quail Inc., between 30,000 and 60,000 Japanese quail will be raised in an existing 25,000-square-foot industrial building.

He assured commissioners the operation would be clean and odorless, and commissioner Mel Gauer said, "I don't know how the gentleman could afford but to have a well run business."

But while Gauer and his colleagues in favor of the proposal were calling for "innovation," commissioner Floyd Farno said he thought it was a high risk deal" and commissioner Glen Johnson termed it "questionable."

Group Gathers For Snake Feast

PENNSYLVANIA FUR- NACE, Pa. (UPI) — Is there anything quite like the taste of rattlesnake meat in summer? No, say members of the Ancient Gastronomic Order of Rattling Reptiles, a group which meets each summer to dine on rattlesnake.

Ralph Homan, of Altoona, Pa., is the self-styled "chief procurer" for the annual gathering in the central Pennsylvania mountains. He said rattlesnake "tastes a little like chicken" and the annual meal brings together prominent attorneys, doctors, college professors and even some state government officials.

This year's meeting, as every year, was held the last Saturday in July. About 60 persons attended along with 18 dead rattlesnakes provided by Homan.

The first meal was in 1942 when Robert Harpster of Spruce Creek and Dr. J. Floyd Buzzard of Altoona were on a fishing trip. During the trip Harpster shot a groundhog and a hired hand on his farm brought in a large rattlesnake that had been killed in a field.

The groundhog and rattlesnake were dressed and then cooked. The first banquet drew six men and it was not until five years later that the Order was formed.

Homan said he goes out into the mountains and looks in rocky areas for rattlesnakes to provide the main course each year.

"After all, they aren't going to come looking for you," he quipped.

Homan said the reason for the annual meetings of the Order is to allow old friends to meet, to talk conservation, and to appreciate the beauty of the countryside.

Women's Lib Wins Victory In Bull Ring

MADRID (UPI) — Women's liberation has hoisted its flag on the strongest bastion of male chauvinism in Spain — bullfighting.

Government officials said Sunday a decree will be published in today's official state bulletin opening Spain's arenas to women bullfighters — or toreras, as Spaniards prefer to call them.

The decree marks final victory in a three-year court fight by buxom, platinum blonde Angela Hernandez to end discrimination against women in bullfighting and win her the right to cape and kill bulls for money.

"I'm overjoyed," said Angela, 27. "And I'm so excited I can't eat."

Angela, who prefers to be called Angelita in the ring, is a protegee of the great Manuel Benitez, whose professional name is "El Cordobes." She has fought bulls in Latin America where women are allowed in the arenas. She carries the scars of three gorings on her shapely body.

The government decree amended the police ordinance governing bullfighting which until now barred women except when they appeared on horseback in a watered-down version of the national sport.

Angela fought for permission to fight on foot and to cape and kill the bulls the way the great matadors do.

"Bullfighting is neither toll nor butchery," she said. "It's an art. It's grace and guts — superbly suited for modern woman."

Angela's lawyers argued before labor courts and civil tribunals that the ban on woman bullfighters violated 13-year-old Spanish legislation eliminating discrimination by sex in any profession.

The government acted after more than 100 people prominent in bullfighting, including some of Spain's most famous matadors, had signed a petition last month. "It can only benefit the fiesta and give it a modern slant," the petition said.

Angela said she will start preparing for her first appearance immediately.

New Jersey Challenges NY TV Stations

TRENTON (UPI) — New Jersey officials, charging nine out-of-state television stations whose broadcasts are seen in this state show no interest in covering New Jersey activities, say they plan to challenge the license renewals of all of them.

Involved are all six New York City commercial television stations, as well as three stations in Philadelphia.

The challenge, to be placed before the Federal Communications Commission, is believed to be the first by a state government contesting the almost routine license renewal procedures.

Aides to Gov. Brendan T. Byrne, instructed to institute legal research into the filing of the complaint, said legal papers will not be filed for six months and probably will be handled by the Department of the Public Advocate.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain And Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itch in many cases. Helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues due to inflammation.

News about a most effective medication comes from a recent survey of doctors. Asked what they, themselves, use to relieve such painful symptoms, many of the doctors reporting named one particular medication they either use themselves or in their office practice.

This medication gives prompt relief for hours in many cases from pain and itching of hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink swelling of such tissues caused by infection. Tests by doctors showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H—the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Try doctor-tested Preparation H. There's no other formula like it. At drug counters everywhere. Ointment or suppositories.

ARTISTIC WINE TASTING — "Sunset Fiesta" will theme the wine tasting benefit planned by Yorba Linda Juniors for Friday, Aug. 16, at 7 p.m. in the outdoor amphitheater of the Southern California College of Optometry in Fullerton. Live musical entertainment and tours of the clinic conducted by students of the college are also planned for the evening. Party goers may also stroll among exhibits set up by artists along the perimeter of the amphitheater. Chairmen of the event include Mmes. Jeffrey Dougal, wine tasting and entertainment; Dieter Kroenlein, tickets; Victor Gudzun, coordinator of artists; and Paul Kelly, door prizes. Proceeds from the event will benefit Operation SEE (Save Eyes for Education), a Juniors' project held in conjunction with the Southern California College of Optometry. Juniors plan to purchase a Optokenetic response computer to be used in testing visual responses of infants and small children. Ticket information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Kroenlein of Yorba Linda. Paying a pre-party visit to the amphitheater are Mrs. Gudzun, left, and Mrs. Marina Tamburri, one of the artists to be featured at the benefit.

DOES HE OR DOESN'T HE?

Women Share Beauty Parlors With OC Men

By TRISH HUETHER
Register Staff Writer

They had done it before behind closed doors, their wives or girlfriends or a fumble-fingered male friend helping them. When they first started doing it publicly they did make a few waves.

Then body waves and perms for men became acceptable, and that practice may move to the center of men's fashion.

If that isn't hair-raising enough, how about manicures and pedicures, facials and coloring for men?

And electrolysis too!

COUNTY CONSENSUS

It's all happening from the border of Buena Park to the shores of San Clemente, and a combing of "women's" salons wasn't necessary to uncover the truth in the tress world.

Conditions in the field: what the well-coiffed man wants today is body above the neck as well as below, a survey of county salons revealed. Males have become permanent customers of former women's hairdressers.

"We are doing a terrific number of men's waves," Carolyn Jacober, shop manager for Hair Hunters in Orange said. "We can count on at least three a week, sometimes 10 or 15. We do have a lot of men who come in to get their hair straightened, too."

PERMS AND RINSES

She said the shop has a regular clientele of men who come in every four to six weeks to get a perm and color job. "The fellows especially like the sun-streaked look. The older ones who don't like gray get that corrected."

It's the younger men, she said, who turn red with embarrassment when they walk into the salon. "This was especially true last year. This year not as much so. Sometimes they hesitate to go to the shampoo bowl, but when they see other men getting their hair rolled in perm rods they change their minds."

Putting a damper on past beliefs, Carolyn said that men are "definitely more vain than women. Especially the first time they are very hesitant to entrust their 'manhood,' their hair, to someone they don't know."

MORE VAIN

"It's really funny to see them looking and poking and picking around their hair after it's cut," she said laughing. "They do that more than the women do."

In her shop some men prefer women to do their hair and some want to stick with the men. "Some really prefer the gals," she said. "You might call it a sex thing, but I think they are really flattered to have a pretty girl work on them giving them her attention. But some prefer a guy who, they feel, will be able to understand them."

"And if the men have weak fingernails the manicurist might suggest prenatal vitamins for them."

Sean Fahy, owner of Sean Fahy Coiffures, Inc., Laguna Hills, agrees that men are more vain. "They are more appearance conscious than women," she said. He thinks that very few male customers in his shop are embarrassed about coming in anymore, "but we do them in a separate section of the shop. A lot of them like that; they feel more relaxed and talk about their hair more freely."

AGE FACTORS

Sean agreed with Carolyn that the age of men coming in was usually between 18 and 40, and more professional and businessmen come in than in other occupations.

"They get manicures and facials and sometimes electrolysis." He explained that those having electrolysis do so to remove hair between the eyebrows when they have grown together.

One male beautician said he would no longer work on men because they are so vain. "Women are in here to please men and men are in here to please themselves. They are harder to please," he said.

Lou Antolin of Philip's Hair Fashions in Santa Ana said that it's the women customers who encourage their husbands or boyfriends to come in, and that's how he gets new customers.

PROFESSIONAL MEN

"I've had teenagers to men in their 60s. Most are professionals. Most come in in the evening after work," Lou said. "The first time they are a little uneasy. But soon they aren't afraid to come in; then they come in during the day."

In his shop the majority of men are asking for haircuts now, with just a few venturing into perms and coloring. "Some like the look of curly hair, the Afro look or the Greek look. Men who do get a perm for those are in their 20s."

In the Broadway in Newport Beach, Doris DiStefano said that she would rather work on men than women because "They believe you much more than women do when you tell them they need a conditioner."

SCARED OF BARBERS

And she believes that men prefer a woman to do their hair because "they got rather scared of the typical barber."

For those men who are losing their hair, she said the blow dry cut "is really good for them because it makes a little hair go a long way."

She disagreed with other beauticians who said that men are more vain, saying, "whose fussier than a woman?"

No sexism was shown in the price category; all the beauticians questioned said the cost was the same for both men and women for a body wave or perm. But perm prices quoted varied between $20 and $40 from shop to shop.

NATIONAL TRENDS

Men's demand for attention in hair care has brought some changes in the beauty suppliers' industry nationally, too.

Helene Curtis in Chicago is including "techniques for curling men's hair" in its seminars for beauty operators.

And changes in perms seem to be tailored for the on-the-go businessman who steps into his salon for a treatment during lunch hour. Giving more natural effect is a perm technique using heat which curls the hair in just six minutes.

ADAPTING BARBERS

And barbers are singing a different tune these days, too. Ed Powell of Barbary Coast Men's Hair Design in Newport Beach said that the old-fashioned barber is a museum piece. "We don't even consider ourselves barbers. We don't give facials or manicures and pedicures, but have everything else."

He said in three-year's time, especially this past year, he has seen the number of men requesting perms, body waves and color changes skyrocket.

And turn-about must be fair play, for 40 per cent of his business is women who come for haircuts!

Cooking On The Go For Imaginative Campers

By BARBARA GIBBONS

If you're a camper, boater or weekend country commuter, "getting away from it all" can create special problems for the calorie-conscious cook. Franks and beans or packaged dinners can get pretty deadly to the taste as well as the diet!

A can opener, coupled with imagination and a thoughtfully stocked galley, can solve your problem. Today we offer three easy-to-dinners with an Italian accent, all simply prepared over a single burner with foods that need no refrigeration. We've enjoyed them all on a cabin cruiser, houseboat, weekend cottage and motor home camper!

A tossed salad and some fruit for dessert are all you need to complete your meal.

CAMPERS' CACCIATORE

2 five-ounce cans boned chicken
2 eight-ounce cans tomato sauce
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning
2 cups water
6 ounces curly egg noodles
Simmer all ingredients in a covered skillet or dutch oven, until noodles are nearly tender. Uncover and continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until liquid evaporates and sauce is thick. Serves four, 306 calories each.

Optional extras if available: canned mushrooms or onions, freshly chopped onions or green pepper, a pinch of garlic powder or a dash of hot pepper.

CABIN CRUISER CLAMS AND SPAGHETTI

6 ounces protein-enriched thin spaghetti boiling salted water
16 ounces canned whole clams
16 ounces canned tomato sauce with onions
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon Italian seasoning
Cook Spaghetti until tender. Drain off water and stir in remaining ingredients, including clam liquid. Cook and stir, uncovered, until liquid is reduced and sauce is thick and bubbling. Serves four, 259 calories each.

TRAILER TUNA TETRAZZINI

8 ounces protein-enriched macaroni
boiling salted water
10½-ounce can condensed mushroom soup
2 tablespoons dry white wine (optional)
3 seven-ounce cans water-pack tuna

2 teaspoons dried parsley
2-ounce jar pimiento (optional)
2 slices American, Cheddar or Swiss cheese
Cook macaroni until tender. Drain off most of the water. Stir in all remaining ingredients except cheese. Cook and stir until sauce is thick and bubbling; add water if needed. Stir in thin strips of cheese until melted. Serves six, 336 calories each.

More slimmed down Italian favorites. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents to SLIM GOURMET ITALIAN RECIPES, in care of The Register, 50 West Shore Trail, Sparta, N.M. 07871.

How do the junior members of your family rate on the fashion I.Q. scale? Give them a test and you'll probably learn that they have a genius score! Children have a natural affinity for dressing up, for fashion. Encouraging them to develop this innate style-sense can save a busy mother wear and tear, and frazzled nerves. Furthermore, she'll give the pencil box and jump rope set confidence by teaching them the ABC's of good grooming and young chic. All it takes is a drop of psychology and a dollop of imagination. Here are some how-to tips:

—Put good grooming aids in the children's rooms. A little girl will be delighted with a hair ribbon rack, a closet rack that's just her height, her own clothes brush, a fashion bulletin board to post pictures of her favorite styles, a bubble bath set. For a boy, a grownup belt and tie rack, a clothes brush, a small "valet" chair and shoe shining kit will go a long way toward encouraging him to be neat. . . .
—When selecting children's clothes, keep an eye out for fabrics with the "magic" touch that children love and busy mothers demand—denims, synthetics and plaids. They offer that special stamina and playcare freedom. Look for clothes that are ready-treated with stain repellent finishes.

Other "magic" helps to watch for: wrinkle-proof fibers, permanent press features that keep Junior's pants crisply-creased and Susie's knife-pleated skirts always pleated! Don't forget to tell the children about the "magic" finishes—they'll be as delighted with their care-free clothes as you are.

—Keep color in mind when buying children's clothes. Coordination is the keynote of any smart and well-kept wardrobe. Sometimes there's a tendency to buy appealing clothes for children that don't match. Bright colors are children's favorites. Why not let your child pick his favorite color and plan a school wardrobe around it? Children are likely to treat things that they select with loving care.

Kids' Sneakers Go Educational For Schoolyear

For mothers with school age children, summer's end signals a universal rite of Fall—outfitting the family with new shoes. In anticipation of starting the school year on the right note, mothers with children in tow flock to neighborhood shoe stores to survey the fall offerings.

There's a big trend to trios: brightly colored sneakers in velveteens, corduroys and canvas promises to please mothers and children alike. Checks, stripes, patches and graphics are artfully used to stimulate small-fry's imagination. And mothers will be delighted with Keds new educational sneakers. They feature numbers, letters, tape measure foxing and toe caps that differentiate "right" from "left."

For the economy-minded, a new corduroy sneaker-shoe combines a stepped-off heel and durable rubber sole with the cushiony comfort of a sneaker at a suggested retail of under nine dollars. Another sneaker is adorned with red reflector patches on the heels to help visibility at twilight or after dark.

This fall's selection of children's sneakers proves that function and fashion can coexist. And anyway, who says sensible shoes can't be fun!

SHHHHHHHH!

To silence squeaks in shoe soles, and to keep the soles pliable, rub with neatfoot or linseed oil.

Country Look Inspires Men's Autumn Fashions

Men's fashions for fall will be more relaxed, more comfortable, and heavily endowed with the elegance of the country gentleman.

The "Country Squire Look" is the all-around suit, says the Men's Fashion Association. It's tailored with a British accent in tweeds, Glen plaids, gun club checks, as well as gabardine and cavalry twills.

Stripes and linear looks in flannels and worsteds will appeal to the more urban-minded man. But whether the look is town or country, vests will be an important part of it. They're made to match, to contrast, or even to reverse.

There's a big trend to trios: suits with an extra pair of slacks in a coordinating color to give sport coat versatility to the suit jacket.

Number one choice in sportswear continues to be the "easy" or "casual" suit, in battle jacket, blouson, C.P.O., over-shirt and safari-style variations.

Keep an eye on sport coats—they're boldly patterned in greens and camels—although the ever-popular blazer retains its classic appeal. Jeans are still the most important casual slacks in a wide choice of fabrics and models.

Outerwear can be summed up in one word: variety! There's the "updated" reefer with peaked lapels and flap pockets . . . the classic navy pea coat with oversized collar . . . the raglan-sleeved "steamer coat" in rugged tweed or camel hair, and the wrapped and sash-belted polo coat.

It's a big sweater year—the bigger the better. The big shawl collar, on pullovers, cardigans and wraps, is the look for fall. Neater patterns show up on sleeveless sweaters, often worn with tweed suits and sport jackets.

In dress shirts, narrow stripes and small, neat checks go well with tweedy clothing. Dressier looks include woven satin stripes and subtle tone-on-tone patterns. Those who like the European-type suit can find shirts cut closer to the body, often with a higher armhole.

Sport shirts stress the western motif with fancy yokes, pockets and cuffs. Pattern, from neat overall geometrics to the wildest poster prints, abounds in both wovens and knits.

In formalwear, the classic black dinner jacket is being worn with tartan vests and trousers. More offbeat models, longer in back and sharply cut away in front, come in velvets and brocades. Navy blues, deep reds, dark grays, browns and greens are the new color trends.

SHOES

Men's shoes keep in step with the popular "country look" featuring tweedy fashions in earthy colors. Shoes will be seen in lighter shades of tan or brown leather and suede for both town and country, predicts the Men's Fashion Association.

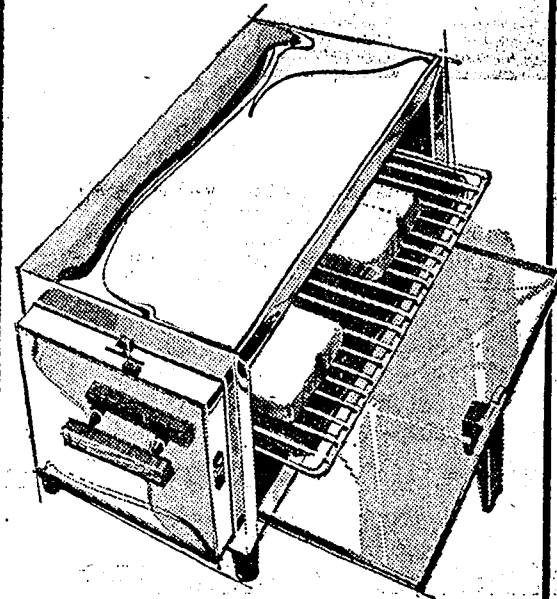

Traditional eyelet models, moccasin-fronts, and ghillie-tongue styles will have thicker leather or even thicker cushiony crepe soles.

MRS. JOSEPH SHULMAN

MRS. JOE McCONATHY

MRS. THOMAS MINER

Kabaian-Berman

Alta Vista Country Club in Placentia was setting for the Sunday, Aug. 11, wedding of Michelle Ann Kabaian and Richard Bruce Berman with Rabbi Henry Front officiating.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy H. Kabaian of Santa Ana wore a silk illusion tulle gown with a scoop neckline and re-embroidered a tulle lace, cap sleeves and a chapel-length train. The headpiece was a total look with a waist-length illusion tulle. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and peach roses.

Jenelle Olson was maid of honor and Robert Rowe was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Berman of Anaheim. Lee and Mitchell Berman and Larry Kabaian ushered.

Following a honeymoon in Ventura at the beach the couple will live in Tustin.

Rose-Shulman

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph David Shulman, nee Pamela Joan Rose, are honeymooning at Lake Tahoe following their wedding and reception Sunday, Aug. 11, in Foothill Jewish Temple-Center, Arcadia.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Rose of Anaheim, the bride was attired in a long white gown trimmed with satin. Rolled satin also adorned her veil, and she carried a multi-colored bouquet.

and Mrs. David Shulman of Monrovia.

Mrs. Arthur Barrera was matron of honor, and Miss Ellen J. Rose was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Mitchell Stein and Mrs. Robert Shulman.

Harry R. Kahn accepted the duties of best man, and ushers were Mark Dahlquist, Robert Bluementhal and Arthur Barrera.

The newlyweds will make their first home in Diamond Bar.

Wilder-McConathy

Garden Grove Seventh-day Adventist Church was setting for the marriage of Virginia Wilder and Joe McConathy Sunday, Aug. 11. The Rev. Norman Versteeg officiated.

Three hundred guests witnessed the ceremony joining McConathy and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Roe of Santa Ana and Dr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Wilder of Orlando, Fla.

The bride was attired in a princess style gown of re-embroidered tulle lace and a cathedral length, lace edged veil, both fashioned by her mother. Seed pearls and lace decorated the boat neckline and cuffs of the long sleeves. The lace and pearl-edged hem of the dress was caught up in festoons to reveal a pleated chiffon border beneath.

The bridegroom, son of the Charles McConathys of Dallas, Tex., chose his brother, Jerry, as his best man. Ushers were Vernon Ajimine, Daryl Cicile, David Hernandez, and Richard Roe Jr.

Mrs. Carol Wilson Garza and Romilda Wilder attended the bride as matron and maid of honor assisted with Merri-lou Wilder and Arlene Weir as bridesmaids.

The newlyweds will return home to Riverside after a honeymoon in Northern California.

Miller-Miner

Miss Judith Anne Miller, daughter of A.Q. Miller of Corona del Mar and the late Mrs. Ulene Miller, and Thomas G. Miner, son of Clarke G. Miner of Bellflower and the late Mrs. Anna Miner, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, Aug. 10, in a garden ceremony held in the Miller home.

The bride chose a long ivory gown of silk organza over peau de soie with lace appliques and pearl embroidered neckline. Her elbow-length veil fell from a czarina style headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Marilyn Miller was matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaid Sandra M. Orsi and Julie Orsi, junior bridesmaid, attended the bride.

Paul V. Bruce was best man with Gerry L. Vanaman and Richard P. Howser,

Driver-Young

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Erroll Young, nee Miss Deborah Dee Driver are enroute to San Francisco for their honeymoon following their marriage Saturday, Aug. 10.

Dr. Charles Dierenfield performed the ceremony before 200 guests in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Newport Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Young of Huntington Beach are the parents of the bridegroom. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Somers Driver of Los Angeles.

The bride was attired in a scoop necked silk organza gown with a camelot lace adorning the bodice. Matching lace adorned her veil. A bouquet of white orchids, lilies of the valley, stephanotis and baby's breath was carried. Nancy Driver was maid of honor. Carol Rosenast, Diane Edwards and Jody Rolapp assisted as bridesmaids.

Robert Young was best man for his brother, Dain Calvin, Kenneth Edwards, Bill Driver, Matthew Chickelo and Bradley Edwards seated guests.

A reception was held in the Newport Beach Home of Mr.

The Happier Side

History is written mostly about potentates crowned and crownless, but Churchill observed that in early England plain people just weren't much involved emotionally in the doings of court. Wars came, crusades ended, political heads chopped, but the concern of the peasant was food, fiber, fodder, Sunday at the kirk, and possibly a couple of days now and then at the fair.

In that vein, we were pleased to note a dispatch from Leicester, England, that Stephanie Cox and one Paul Cook had patched up a lover's tiff and are now engaged. She had pleaded guilty in magistrate's court to scratching 299 music records that belonged to her boyfriend, so the sentence was not pronounced.

Amid the capital traumas, life goes on. Such a neat ending. Two hundred and ninety-nine fewer records! Lovely.

Government Vs. Bureaucracy

Few persons would have any difficulty distinguishing the difference between a case of beer and a case at law. An exception might be some person who is not familiar with the English language. In both instances, the word "case" is spelled the same, but has different origins and different meanings.

The dictionary says the case-of-beer type "case" comes from the Latin word "capsa" that means chest whereas the law-case type "case" comes from the Latin "causa" which means fall, event, chance or special set of circumstances. In the judicial sense, "case" means a special set of circumstances that constitute a legal problem.

Verbal distinctions are not always that clear. Some words have a common origin, a related meaning, and yet refer to separate items. How many ministers, for example, have labored in the belief they were building a church when in fact they were constructing a church building. One denomination—the Quakers—makes a very strong point of the difference between the church and the church building. Traditionally the latter was referred to as the "meeting place." The term "church" was thus reserved to refer to Christians generally or the local congregation.

Some words have no relation to one another as to origin, or as to spelling, or even

Baltimore has been a city of turmoil. It began when Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) landed at the scene, thumbed his nose at the law and any state of normalcy and harangued all union employees into more militancy. He fanned flames by saying illegal strikers "had no choice but to break the law."

It started when sanitation workers of Baltimore refused a six per cent wage hike which a majority of workers had approved. National union bosses quickly joined with the minority-led strikers with demands that sent the city into court. Other city workers, and finally the police, joined in.

Blame for the strike must be laid at the steps of City Hall. The city's elected leaders for years have bowed and scraped to the ever-increasing demands of the public employee union bosses and their rabble rousers.

Out in Detroit, other union bosses could claim another "victory" of a little different sort. The American Press Co. which printed more than 20 small, metropolitan area newspapers, has closed permanently. Faced with what were termed "impossible" demands the "victorious" Graphic Arts International Union lost 110 jobs.

Unfortunately, this won't affect the union bosses much. It is the worker who will have to move out and fend for himself....

(1974 Woody Palmes)

We find it helpful to think of government as the plan, outline or scheme of action. We distinguish "government" in the valid sense of the term which is a corruption of government. In this frame, bureaucracy becomes the visible system. Bureaucracy is what you see when you go down to city hall. The system, the plan—the government, so to speak—is there, but it's in the books, in the brains, in the laws; you don't see it.

The difference between bureaucracy and government can be illustrated by a metaphor. Imagine two bridges crossing the same river. Suppose, for the purpose of discussion, that both have the same carrying capacity and both arrive at the same destination. However, one of the bridges contains 100 times more stone and steel than the other. Further it requires reinforcement of additional bulk year after year. That bridge symbolizes the bureaucracy. Comparing one bridge with the other, would not a reasonable person conclude that the bulkier, more expensive bridge was defective in the engineering?

Both government and bureaucracy purport to be a means for providing a defense against the community enemies, foreign and domestic. Both claim the same purpose. But the two are not the same. Like government, the "bureaucratic bridge" started out from a clean, but not faultless design. The enlarged size of the bureaucracy arises from two causes. A minor cause is the defects in the original plan. A major cause is that the original design was modified by latter-day engineers.

If that is a fair representation, the remedial problem is to identify the specific reasons that started the enlargement process. As we read history, the core of the matter is that individuals in government and out of government have tried to use this defensive instrument to achieve non-defensive goals. We started out with a government in the true sense of the word, but we wound up with a limitless bureaucracy. The two are related, have long been associated, are often thought of interchangeably, but are not the same.

Question Box

Question No. 2199: I read that a couple of California Democrats, Sen. John Tunney and Rep. John Moss, are pushing in Congress for a "truth in energy" act. What business do politicians have passing such a law? What does "truth in energy" mean? How can politicians determine what is true and what is false?

Answer: As we understand it, the bill is designed to require manufacturers of home appliances to label them showing their energy use requirements. It sounds like the first step toward setting up a new regulatory agency in the bureaucracy of the national government.

Supposedly there was a study made that showed some home appliances used more energy than others, so that they might be less costly to purchase, but more costly to operate. We read a New York Times report which said the study showed a refrigerator purchased in 1972 for $300 would cost an additional $700 to operate over a 14-year period. That amounts to more than $50 a year. The report said that by spending an additional $55 for insulation and/or improved motor, the buyer would save $25 a year in energy costs.

The only thing wrong with the report is that the estimates of cost appear way out of line. Power-company figures indicate that the approximate monthly cost of operating a refrigerator is 75 cents. For a more expensive frost-free refrigerator-freezer, the cost is put at $1.75 a month. That figures out at $9 a year for a refrigerator or $21 a year for a frost-free combination job. How one can save $25 a year on a $21 charge is a little difficult for this writer to understand. It sounds pretty much like some of the political figures coming out of the Washington bureaucracy's propaganda mills.

Now, even if the political figures were correct, it is none of the government's business to step further into the field of "trying to protect the consumer from making a mistake in his purchasing. All such laws do is to add to the cost of the purchases and increase the tax load, while giving buyers a false sense of security. And usually they lead to further controls, such as the so-called safety and air pollution rulings out of Washington which may not be effective in accomplishing their purpose other than increasing costs to purchasers and raising taxes and adding bureaucrats to the payroll.

We do not think either politicians or bureaucrats are as qualified to tell the people what is good for them as the people themselves are. Actually when politicians favor such legislation they are expressing contempt for the people who elect them to office. In effect they are saying "the people are too dumb to understand."

Scorner's Seat

Let us imagine for a minute that the news got out that every politician in the United States had been taped in all of his private conversations, that these tapes were all admissible evidence, and that any politicians who were caught in a lie would be imprisoned. There probably would be a mass exodus, with few, if any politicians left. And I'm not saying we would be any the worse for it.

It seems politicians and used car dealers are champions. They are not the only ones, but they are the champions. This is not to say that crime should not be punished; I just hate to see it brought about by bigger liars than those being convicted.

I hope when the Democrats get through cleaning up the Republican Party that there are enough Republicans left to clean up the Democratic Party. It might be like the two cats fighting. Each started swallowing the other's tail and soon there was nothing left; they had swallowed each other. Cats have been fighting ever since.

The Republicans have already lost their tail and haven't even gotten a bite yet.

Table Food

I certainly lose patience when I keep hearing about people resorting to eating cat and dog food. Now this is either a n o t h e r communist conspiracy to create unrest among our people, or these people are not very wise and deserve to eat cat and dog food.

Now I've been experimenting for a month, since I live alone anyway. I find I can eat for $1 per day and not be hungry and do not have to eat cat and dog food. Here is my menu: for Monday:

Breakfast: 2 soft boiled eggs, 2 pieces 100 per cent whole wheat bread, 1 glass powdered milk.

Lunch: 1 cheese sandwich (from day-old whole wheat bread) and 1 glass of powdered milk.

Supper: Stewed pears, 2 tablespoons cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon honey, 2 slices whole wheat bread.

On Tuesday I had the following: Breakfast: Hot cereal, 2 slices 100 per cent whole wheat bread. Lunch: Cheese sandwich and glass of powdered milk. Supper: Can of soup and 2 slices 100 per cent wheat bread.

I alternated the menus for the remainder of the week.

Now I admit this isn't living according to some people's standards, but it beats eating cat and dog food and costs only $1 per day. I have been doing this for a month. I am 58, work seven days a week, walk back and forth to work and do 100 sit-ups every day. I feel great.

Driving My Way

When I read the first part of the debate about the 55-mph speed limit I got the impression that the second part would be an argument for repeal and return to the old speed limit. What I found instead was a week-kneed middle-of-the-road approach by CHP boss Pudinski. Apparently he prefers the 55-mph speed limit, but realizes that he can't enforce it. He, in this at least, is correct.

He mentioned safety—fewer traffic deaths—as one of the reasons for keeping the speed limit down, aside from gas conservation. I'm not going to argue about gas conservation; everyone already knows that little if any gas is being conserved by that action. But how can he claim that the reduced speed limits are responsible for fewer traffic deaths when in his next breath he states that the new speed limit is being largely ignored?

A few weeks ago I was accosted by one of Pudinski's highwaymen and subsequently relieved of $45.50 by the court. While it is true that I was exceeding the speed limit, I contend that I was endangering nobody and that the speed I drive is my business so long as this is true. I told him this, in reply to which he got very angry—visibly and audibly so—and made several statements the gist of which were that a man with an attitude like mine shouldn't be on the highways and such things were not for me to judge.

To the first I now reply, what kind of attitude should a man have when accosted by someone armed. To the second, if I can't judge my own driving ability, who can?

The reason I bring all this up is that I don't in all seriousness think that the traffic law enforcement system is really all that concerned with safety. I think it is a revenue-raising scheme. I've come to think of traffic fines as a special tax for driving the way I feel safest.

If the highway people were really worried about safety, they would have considered the following: The person most likely to get into a collision is the person who drives without giving full attention to that task. All the material I have read on the subject indicates that most collisions are caused by drunks or speeders or one of several other unpatriotic types. Nonsense. They are caused by sleeping drivers, whether speeding, drinking or not. The drinking or speeding only aggravates an already dangerous situation. A driver should assess his personal state and drive accordingly or not drive at all. If he chooses to drive, he should keep 100 per cent of his

Editor's Scratch Pad

By JIM DEAN

A few weeks ago Frank Sinatra called news reporters "parasites" and allowed that he held them in low esteem.

Frank has a point if one considers a reporter merely as a person who tells people what other people are accomplishing. His statement suggests that if it were not for the doers like Frankie, reporters wouldn't have a reason to exist.

Webster's definition of parasite makes Sinatra's charge a bit unpalatable. Webster says, among other things, that a parasite is one who eats at the table of another, repaying him with flattery. Biologically, a parasite is "a plant or animal living in or on or with some other living organism (its host) at whose expense it obtains food, shelter etc."

That says that parasites perform no useful service, and when Sinatra suggests that reporters perform no useful service it merely points out that he is long on mouth and short on memory.

There is no question about Sinatra desiring his lofty perch in the musical world. He may not have it today as once he did. But, indeed, once he did, and no one can deny that talent.

FAME IS IN THE TELLING Only trouble is that Frankie seems to have forgotten that not everybody in the world knew how good he was until newspaper reporters began telling them.

No doubt the music buffs learned quickly in their intimate circle that the skinny kid with the bow tie was a winner, but it took exposure in the press to make his name the household word it became so quickly in those troubled times of the early 1940's.

He was good. The press helped spread the word and so he became a legend.

But there is a lot of musical talent out there in nowhere that never hits it big.

Part of Sinatra's stardom came as a result of the mood of the land. Things were going rather badly for American fighting men, people at home were working in three shifts to produce the tools of war. They were having to do without some of the niceties of life as a contribution to the "war effort." Young men in the service were scattered over the nation, uprooted from home and family. The future seemed uncertain.

Sinatra added a bit of romance to their lives, and the grimmest of what might lie ahead could be blotted out.

Later he became a reminder of those happy moments one enjoyed in an otherwise gloomy atmosphere.

So, we really shouldn't think too unkindly of old Frank. He did many a serviceman a good turn helping set a romantic mood, and no doubt his old recordings still warm up the atmosphere for courtship.

The trouble with super stardom is that it sometimes destroys the person while exploiting the talent. It is a terrible price one must pay. That no doubt is why many talented musicians never strive for the mountain top.

Throughout Orange County, you'll find many fine talents content to sing their songs or play their music in the calm of relative obscurity.

They're in show biz, all right. They enjoy the applause, but they are not devalued. They can be real people.

The other night at a private party a small combo called the Henry Reiss Orchestra performed for dancing in as fine a fashion one could ask. Phil Gray who fronted used to perform with Spade Cooley and the Polka Parade. His name may not be a household word, but he's talented and is a warm friendly person.

There's a fellow named Joe Zanotti who plays a fine accordion for small parties. He could be booked no doubt in big clubs anywhere. But he's content, and he's a person.

SUPERSTAR TO SUPER-

TRAGEDY

The country is filled with such entertainers. Most of them have other jobs, but they like it, and it doesn't disrupt their lives.

Sometimes, of course, there is terrible disappointment at not making it to the big time. The guy who feels he never got a break is a tragedy to behold.

Such a person might take comfort by looking at what happens frequently to the superstar.

Certainly Sinatra is rich and famous and powerful, (no doubt the reader will be quick to say he'll settle for that) but he doesn't know who he is or who his friends are.

There's gotta be something wrong there.

TWO PAYMENTS PER STUDENT

School Bureaucracy Is Charging Double

By JERRY GOLDBERG

Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO (Capitol)—

The Educational Bureaucratic Empire Building is costing California's taxpayers millions of dollars in duplicated services and useless programs.

There was little problem over who would operate the vocational training centers before the community colleges were removed from the elementary-secondary systems. Usually, vocational education grew on the community college campuses which were better equipped to meet the occupational needs of various specialized communities.

High schools offered some vocational training at a post graduate level in the communities that didn't have a fully equipped community college. There were also some secondary districts that offered basic vocational skills but not on anything more than a familiarization basis.

The legislature has, through the years, provided special ADA (average daily attendance) funding for vocational training and made provisions for special tax rates to construct facilities.

In recent years, the duplicated efforts have gotten completely out of hand. In some districts of the state, occupational training centers are operated by a high school across the street or a few blocks away from a community college which is offering exactly the same program.

The high schools have even developed a scheme, which received legislative approval, making it possible for a high school to obtain double ADA money for the same student. The student is enrolled part of the day in the regular high school program. The rest of the day, the student is enrolled in an occupational training center often located on the same campus.

Both systems have learned how to pick up funds which were earmarked under education for convenience and cost saving to the taxpayer. In these cases, the special program becomes another way for a greedy school district to grab up more ADA funds.

For example, many small communities do not have facilities to train policemen or firefighters. In the past, they had to train the new recruit on the job, train them at the FBI school in the east or buy expensive training at the police or fire academies operated by the larger cities in the state.

Legislation was passed which enabled regional police or fire schools to be established at a conveniently located high school or junior college. For convenience, the funding was placed under the State Department of Education which was already filtering special federal training funds to local communities. Instructors were usually local police or fire experts with an occasional specialist brought in for a specific program.

Suddenly, local police and fire departments found schools were offering completely useless courses in police and fire work to people completely unsuitable to meet the requirements for a department. The State Department of Education has even attempted to develop a fire department officer class by giving nothing but textbook training to "potential leaders." This has caused a real problem for those departments who maintain strong skill and experience requirements for captains and above.

The Career Education Committee of the assembly is currently planning hearings to break-up the duplication of programs and waste of educational funds.

Vera saved her marriage by the experiment below. Every actor and actress can attest to its value. So make it a rule of your life, for happiness is not a gift from outside nor a destination but a way of living!

CASE B-613: Vera G., aged 42, attended a banquet session that I recently addressed.

"Dr. Crane," she began as we sat together at the speaker's table, "I am deeply indebted to your newspaper column."

"As a young wife 20 years ago I became so blue and discouraged that I withdrew from my circle of friends and wanted to die."

"But I was a faithful reader of your 'Worry Clinic' and on the very day I felt like committing suicide, you described another lonely, discouraged wife who might have been my twin."

"And you told her that everybody can be happy by following the right psychological formula."

"You said if we'd act the way we'd like to be, then soon we'd be the way we act!"

"For you also stated that we cannot control our emotions by direct effort of our will."

"But our mind can regulate and direct our motions."

"So you urged us to go through the proper motions and then we'd quickly begin to feel the corresponding emotions."

"Well, Dr. Crane, I decided to try that rule of psychology."

"As a result, I put up a jolly 'front,' smiling at my companions and acting as if I were happy."

"To my surprise, I found that it wasn't long till I actually began to feel the way I acted."

"For my artificial gaiety, though a mere role adopted as if I were an actress, aroused in me the corresponding emotions."

"Throughout the intervening 20 years, I have spread that doctrine to many other wives who were moody, depressed and lonely."

"And it has transformed many of them, so I wish you'd again remind all your readers to adopt that law of psychology."

HEED DR. JAMES

Dr. William James was our famous pioneer psychologist in America.

He taught his students at Harvard that if they'd assume the physical posture of a given emotion, they would soon begin to feel the emotion itself.

Actors and actresses have proved that fact, for they soon begin to "live" the roles they portray on the stage or before the movie cameras.

Remember, emotions are not subject to a direct act of our will.

But motions are! Our brain can thus make us turn up the corners of our mouth in a cheery grin, thus dispelling our former sour expression.

A frightened person, by an act of his will, can also throw out his chest, double up his fists and assume the posture of a fighter.

Lo and behold, he then loses much of his former terror and begins to feel brave!

If any of you still have a Doubting Thomas' attitude and want to test this axiom of psychology, just force your facial muscles into a grin.

Also, compel the muscles of your larynx and throat to utter a cheery "Isn't it a beautiful day?"

And add a sincere compliment to your companion, even if he were a former enemy. You'll be surprised at the change in your outlook!

So send for my "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and launch your entire family on this jolly project.

Address: Dr. George W. Crane, care of The Register, Syndicate Bldg., Melrose, Ind.

DOCTOR SAYS

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been told by other people that the daily intake of vitamin C pills and other vitamin pills will cause a person's appetite to increase or cause that person to gain weight. Is this statement true?

DEAR READER — Vitamins do not contain calories. There is no way they could increase your appetite unless you were deficient in vitamins and taking them improved your health and hence your appetite. I think you will have to look for something more substantial as a cause for weight gain and that something is usually calories.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband woke up one morning with a badly swollen leg. No pain at all. After 10 days he saw a doctor. He was not our regular doctor, and he thought he had a heart condition. He gave him some pills for this. Our regular doctor came back and he put him in the hospital where his leg was elevated and hot packs applied. He spent four days in the hospital and his leg was still swollen. The doctor stopped the heart pills as his tests showed him to be in excellent health and with no heart problems.

We moved to Florida and our new doctor looked over both reports. He is puzzled by the swelling, too. His ankle and foot are still swollen, but the swelling has gone down in his leg. He has been wearing an elastic stocking as recommended but feels that it is cutting off the circulation as it is too tight at the top. The doctor suggested that he might have a circulation problem but said he didn't know. I'd appreciate your thoughts about this.

DEAR READER — It is true that some heart problems cause swelling of the feet, BUT it is swelling of both feet or both legs and not marked swelling of just one. Swelling of just one leg usually means failure of the veins to drain the leg properly as can occur if there is a clot in a deep vein inside the leg. I would guess that is what your own doctor thought when he elevated the leg and used hot packs.

The lymph system in the leg can also be obstructed. Not many people realize there is still another circulation besides the blood circulation. We have an extensive network of "lymph channels" throughout the body that circulates that clear fluid that sometimes seeps out of a wound. The lymph channels are all connected to all those lymph glands in the body and eventually empty the lymph into the circulation near the heart. When it is obstructed it can cause swelling.

Then, there is the possibility of an inflammation, but there should be some physical evidence if that were the case. The mystery is, what is obstructing the flow of lymph or the normal drainage of the veins in that leg? That could be a lot of different things.

Happily though, it sounds like your husband is getting well. The foot and ankle stay swollen longest because they are literally the bottom of the bucket, and that is where the fluid collects. As the swelling diminishes, there may be less need for elastic support at the top of the stocking. And, you should tell your husband's doctor that the stocking is too tight at the top. He can probably fix that problem for you.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10109. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Balanced Diet" booklet.

OC To Mull Bus Passes For Elderly

SANTA ANA—Passes for rides for the elderly aboard Orange County Transit District (OCTD) buses will be considered Tuesday by county supervisors.

Cost of an experimental one-year program would be $152,981.

Supervisor Robert Battin last month proposed providing passes to all residents over 65 years of age, but the county Senior Citizens Council has recommended starting with only those living below the federal poverty level.

Anaheim Law To Ban Fortune Telling Rapped

ANAHEIM—An attorney for a gypsy and fortune-teller who wishes to open a business in the city has sent the council a letter challenging the constitutionality of municipal code sections prohibiting such an operation.

However, assistant city attorney William Hopkins said the proper place to test the ordinance is in Superior Court, and city councilmen took no action on the letter.

According to Los Gatos attorney Boris Baranowski, a similar fortune-telling ordinance in Menlo Park has been found unconstitutional and it and those of other cities have since been amended.

He suggested that business licenses be given to fortune-tellers for an annual fee of $400 to $500 and that the applicant submit to photographing and fingerprinting.

But Hopkins said the Menlo Park case does not apply to Anaheim because that ordinance revoked the licenses of fortune-tellers already in business.

Anaheim has prohibited fortune-telling since 1944, Hopkins said, and there are two known fortune-telling operations in the city that are being put out of business by the code.

Grant Awarded To Cal State

LONG BEACH — A $115,000 federal grant has been awarded to Cal State Long Beach to supplement its on-going program to remove architectural barriers on campus for physically handicapped students.

A state official said the money was just a portion of a $1.4 million federal tax grant to the state Department of Rehabilitation, which was distributed among the 19 campuses in the state university system.

Cal State recently received a $32,475 tax grant from the state to finance a disabled students pilot program.

Exile Returns

ATHENS (UPI) — Eleni Vlachos, Greece's only woman publisher, returned Saturday following seven years of self-exile in England. Friends said she will resume publication of one of her two newspapers.

Mrs. Vlachos owned and personally edited two dailies, Kathimerini in the morning and Messimerini in the afternoon.

Both newspapers suspended publication after the military takeover in April 1967.

Jim: "George Gooden and Frank Thomas have written an amusing book called 'Sherlock Holmes-Bridge Detective'. It is a collection of 44 hands. The bidding is important since each one illustrates some point in play in the form of a dissertation by Holmes."

Oswald: "The first hand shows Holmes at a four-heart contract. West leads three rounds of diamonds. East ruffs dummy's queen. Holmes overruffs, plays three rounds of trumps and loses the spade finesse. East leads back a spade to dummy's ace. Holmes ruffs a third spade."

Jim: "Holmes promptly leads a club to dummy's king; finesses against East's queen and claims his contract before West has had time to play to the trick. West says, 'It looks as if you knew, my partner had the queen.'"

Oswald: "Of course, Holmes did. It wouldn't require much effort on anyone's part to know. When East trumped the third diamond it meant West held six cards in that suit. West had shown up with three spades and three hearts and followed to the first club. Thirteen cards were accounted for. He could not have another club."

Land Purchase For Park Wins Fullerton OK

FULLERTON — The purchase of two separate parcels totaling 5.85 acres for the appraisal value of $186,400 for park land in the northeast section of the city has been authorized by the city council.

The city plans to purchase from Marcelina M. Arroues and others 2.51 acres on the northwest corner of Puente Street and Rolling Hills Drive just north of Beechwood Elementary School.

The city also is acquiring 3.33 acres from William and Clara Lange on the northeast of Bastanchury Road just east of Maple Avenue and south of Rolling Hills Elementary School.

The city already has purchased a 3.1 acre park site on the west side of Maple Avenue north of Bastanchury Road.

The park and recreation commission has recommended that the city acquire an additional three acres in the vicinity of the existing park site, said James M. Cowie Jr., director of park and recreation commission. This will provide land for the development of a neighborhood park.

'Too High' Bids For Road Work Turned Down

FULLERTON — The two bids received for street and sewer improvement on Magnolia Avenue between Commonwealth and Orangethorpe Avenues have been rejected by the city council because they were too high.

The low bid of $1,168,508 submitted by Goodman and Peloquin and Norco of La Habra was $515,709 higher than the engineer's estimate of $652,800, said Hugh L. Berry.

Edmund W. Grens, director of finance, was authorized to re-advertise the project for new bids.

City Administrator William F. Cornett was instructed by the council to seek additional funding for the project from the county.

The approved plan for the Magnolia Avenue improvement calls for an 80-foot right-of-way with four lanes and left turn pockets at intersections and raised landscaped medians where practical.

Included in the project is a sewer line estimated to cost $225,257 and a storm drain at $128,504.

The project has been approved by the county's Arterial Highway Financing Program for cooperative funding.

Irvine Planners OK Development

IRVINE—Planning commissioners here have recommended city council approval of a 31.7-acre residential development on Walnut Avenue east of Culver Drive.

The proposed development, College Park Greens to be built by Shapell Industries Inc., would consist of 210 one- and two-story houses with three to five bedrooms. The anticipated price is $40,000 to $50,000.

The project area is surrounded by the North Irvine High School now under construction, the Santa Ana freeway, a proposed Culver-Walnut shopping center and a subdivision across Walnut Avenue.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, AUGUST 13

Your birthday today: Opens a year of normal growth in directions suited to your age. Personal authority improves to meet increasing responsibilities. Relationships spread spontaneously, and more than ever, evolve into complex patterns. Today's natives often make issues of abstinence or indulgence in creature comforts.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You can do a great deal about yesterday's rough going. Take long steps of progress in uncomplicated directions. Later hours lighten up. Talk shop, celebrate a bit.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Ongoing activities are favored; fresh starts, difficult, requiring more energy than is convenient. Concentrate on the simplest method to get the most done. Prepare for a big day tomorrow.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You are much freer than usual to shift positions, change directions. Think what you're doing, ignore imagined or inflated prospects. Romance is inactive, but meaningful.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: In performing neglected chores, you retrieve misplaced objects, reminders of important, unattended details, some just in time. Consider ways to protect your health.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Cooperation is lopsided; friends benefit more than you. New contacts, brief travels go well. Reward for diligence is intangible, comes belatedly and over a long period of time.

Alcohol Agency Names Director
A Betty Gates Snider of Laguna Beach has been hired as the new executive director of the Alcoholism Council of Orange County. The volunteer, non-profit organization, which seeks private funding, provides alcoholism counseling and medical references for alcoholics and their families.

Health News... Restless in Sleep — Tired Tomorrow!

There seems to be a growing group of people who complain they were "always tired." We looked to Anaheim's Dr. Carl Remelin for an answer to this beguiling problem.

"Before I answer," says Dr. Remelin, "let me say that if you have the impression that the 'always tired' feeling is always the result of a deficiency of some important substance in the blood, that impression may well be wrong. 'I don't care what that commercial says,' Dr. Remelin comically states. 'There are other possible causes and it is two of them that I would ask you to give some thought.'"

"Consider 'lazy blood vessels,' he asks. "Should I drop a cork in a narrow stream where there is a fast current, the cork will float rapidly," Dr. Remelin illustrates. "Should that stream bed suddenly widen to a pond, the cork will float lazily along."

"Now if that cork were a blood corpuscle in the blood stream, carrying oxygen to some needy cell, or if it were a particle of nutrition for that cell, you can imagine what would happen. The cell would tire before it received its nutrition," Dr. Remelin says.

"Without getting so technical that I must give a complete description of the circulatory system and the function of the heart," says Dr. Remelin, "let me simply ask you to observe that when the muscles in the walls of the blood vessels are generally too relaxed, the circulation of nutrition bearing blood to the cells is slowed too much. Some call it sluggish circulation. I used the term 'lazy blood vessels.'"

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Let this be a slow-moving day to get a good look at your work situation, and to get your way. Experiment on minor phases. Earning power increases.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Useful knowledge arrives from all directions—your way of combining ideas may be a winner! Think! Push yourself all day to definite, disciplined action.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Improvement in financial potential seems likely. Hidden assets, previously unexploited resources are tangible through determined effort. A switch in your approach resolves an old problem.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Close associates become closer, are more willing to check facts and figures with you. Redeem social obligations, return courtesy calls. Give your friends a helping hand.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your work moves into another phase. Old habits and attitudes simply do not produce ideal results. Subordinates benefit from your current successful planning.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Special advice, some unexpected, some long-range, is helpful in many directions. Repercussions of past actions continue in distant places.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Today is somewhat evenly paced, quite productive. You can rearrange your lifestyle to include new factors and achieve fuller cooperation among associates.

Rapid Transit Corridor Advisory Panel Formed

A citizens advisory committee was formed this past week to aid the Orange County Transit District (OCTD) in second phase planning for a rapid transit corridor and its feeder lines in Orange County.

Named to the steering committee which will guide the advisory committee's actions were:

Orange businessman Richard Hart, chairman; UCI Chancellor Dan Aldrich; Air California president Robert Clifford; Mrs. Gerald Podolak, transportation chairman of the League of Women Voters; Jeff Lodder, vice president of the Mission Viejo Co.; Ray Mendoza, international representative of the Laborers and Hod Carriers Union; Ray Pelozo, vice president of Avco Community Developers; Anaheim Mayor Bill Thom; Sandy Berwick, Santa Ana real estate broker and Josh White, president of Josh White Associates, Inc.

The advisory committee will participate in transit planning now conducted by OCTD, with special emphasis in the areas of cost; benefit, social impact, environmental and technological studies.

The committee will issue an independent report on its evaluation of OCTD planning efforts with recommendations on the future direction of public transportation in the county, OCTD officials said.

BP Councilman Hit For Stand On Tax Rate

BUENA PARK—Councilman Harold Bousman was accused by voting "no" on the city's 1974-75 property tax rate of $1 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bousman told fellow councilmen that his "no" vote was in protest to the tendency of government agencies to set higher tax rates than necessary.

Bousman made his announcement after City Manager Rick Wyckoff revealed that a $1 tax rate would bring in approximately $64,000 more than required to meet the budget.

Councilman Jesse Davis accused Bousman of using his "no" vote for political reasons. He said that if a majority of the council followed Bousman's lead, the city would end up with no budget.

The $1 rate received final approval by a 3-1 vote. Councilman Ralph Hines was not present.

O'Neill's 'Hughie' Done Well By Ben Gazzara At Hartford

By RICHARD E. MENTZER
Eugene O'Neill's mini slice of life, "Hughie," is another example of the late playwright's fascination with the drifters and dreamers of this world. This seldom performed one-act play is rather hard to define, since it is more of a finely etched character than a well rounded play. Yet due to the skill of O'Neill, it is an important work. And thanks to the excellent production values of the version now playing at the Huntington Hartford Theatre (through Aug. 31) "Hughie" should have wide audience appeal.

It is not an arid or sterile piece, but overflows with those vital juices that indicate one is in the presence of life. In the short span of one hour, we learn all there is necessary to know about a small-time down on his luck gambler (Ben Gazzara) and the day dreams that he attempts to weave for a not too caring night clerk (Peter Maloney). This cocky little gambler has spun so many tales in the past, that he is no longer capable of realizing the truth. The one thing he is sure of is that he is lonely, he is tired and he is at the nerve edge of collapse. As one might imagine, this is pretty heady theater.

Without question, much of the pleasure of "Hughie" is obtained from the wonderfully human portrait of the gambler that Ben Gazzara presents. He has the walk, talk and manner of the character down pat. Plus the hint of fear behind the eyes that says more about the man than any words that he could utter. Ben Gazzara gives a total performance and one that I am sure O'Neill would have enjoyed.

Trevino Edges Nicklaus For PGA Championship

Snead, Cole, Green, Hill Deadlocked For Third Place Money

CLEMMONS, N.C. (UPI) — Lee Trevino is going back to the Masters, but now he's going there with a real goal in mind—a Grand Slam.

Trevino played an almost flawless round Sunday to edge Jack Nicklaus by a stroke and win the PGA Championship for the first time, leaving him needing only a Masters victory for a sweep of the world's major professional golf titles.

He made it clear he's going to try for it.

"I'll go to Augusta next year if they'll have me," Trevino said moments after sinking a one-foot par putt on the final green.

"I've always said they treat the players super there—but I did not like the course. But now I must return and give myself a chance of winning all the big four titles."

The list of four players who have accomplished the feat is headed by Nicklaus, the only man to win them all at least twice. But Trevino seems to have an almost mystical grip on the Golden Bear in head-tohead competition; Lee has won five major titles since he burst to prominence winning the '68 U.S. Open (that's the same number Jack has won in the same span) and Nicklaus has been the runner-up in four of them.

Trevino has complained the Augusta National course, which calls for high, arching shots—the kind Nicklaus hits but Trevino doesn't—was not suited to his game.

He usually goes fishing around Masters time, and Nicklaus thinks that is a mistake.

"I never agreed about the course not suiting him," said Nicklaus, who gave Trevino a similar pep talk at Merion before the 1971 U.S. Open, and then Trevino wound up beating him in a playoff for the title.

"I'm delighted Lee is returning to Augusta," said Nicklaus, a four-time Masters champion. "He'll need to drive straight, but that's what he did here, and that's why he won. He can win on any golf course after the way he won here."

Trevino, who held a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus and South African Bobby Cole at the start of the day, was never in any real difficulty, although he did create a little excitement by three-putting the 71st hole for a bogey, as he shot a one-under-par 69 for a winning total of 276.

Nicklaus, never able to make the big birdie putt he needed, matched the 69 and finished at 277.

Before Sunday, Trevino had won the U.S. Open twice—1968 and 1971—and the British Open twice—1971 and 1972. In all but his 1971 British triumph, Nicklaus finished second.

There was a four-way tie for third place at 279 among Cole, who was in the chase until the final three holes when he finished bogey-double bogey-par, 62-year-old Sam Snead, Dave Hill and Hubert Green.

Cole, a co-leader as late as the eighth hole on Sunday, had a closing 71, Snead a 68, Hill 69 and Green 70. For Snead, this marked the third year in a row he had finished in the top 10 at the PGA Championship.

Gary Player, turned back in his effort to win three majors this year—he won the Masters and British Open—was next at 70-280 and Al Geiberger produced the day's best round, a four-under-par 66, and finished at 281.

Eight players were within three strokes of Trevino's lead when the final day's play began, but it quickly became evident this would be another of those Trevino-Nicklaus finishes, notwithstanding the up-and-down play of Cole, who made only five pars all day.

And Lee, who beat Nicklaus in a playoff for the '71 U.S. Open and chipped in four times to ruin his Grand Slam ambitions in Britain a year later, had the upper hand all day.

They played together in the final group. On hole after hole, Nicklaus drilled his approach shots within birdie range on Tanglewood's smallish greens. Invariably, Trevino would follow and get his ball inside of Nicklaus.

Lee, playing with a putter he borrowed from a widow whose house he rented for the week, made only two birdies, but they were all he needed. He sank a five-footer for his birdie at the 380-yard first hole and a 15-footer at the 445-yard ninth, where he took the lead for good.

With six holes to go, Trevino led by three after Nicklaus three-putted 12. The Golden Bear got within two again by making a short birdie putt at 13, but at each of the next three holes both players missed makeable birdie tries.

Frustration was visible on the faces of both old antagonists, particularly in Trevino's case when he hit the cup with a short birdie putt at the 16th hole and it spun out.

Then came Trevino's only lapse of the day.

At the 445-yard 17th, he drilled his second shot within 10 feet of the cup. Trevino, who had promised to "go for broke" Sunday, feeling he had nothing to lose, then left his birdie putt three feet short. And missed.

Nicklaus now was only one down on 18, but there he ran his birdie putt past the hole, Trevino easily two-putted for his clinching par, and the 1973 champion, Nicklaus, warmly patted the 1974 champion on the back.

Trevino's previous rounds were 73, 66 and 68. Nicklaus had gone 69-69-70 and was the only player in the tournament who did not have at least one round over par.

The victory, worth $45,000 to Trevino, also put him in the World Series of Golf Sept. 7 and 8 at Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, with Player, U.S. Open champ Hale Irwin and Canadian Open winner Bobby Nichols, the Firestone pro.

In the past, Trevino has protested that the long and rolling Firestone layout wasn't suited to his game, has bypassed the American Golf Classic held there each year, and hasn't won the World Series in three tries.

But he will go there to try for the $50,000 top prize and, ironically, Sunday's victory sends Super Mex back to play again on another course he hates—Augusta National.

He'll go back to the Masters now, that's the only part of the four big ones he needs to join Nicklaus, Player, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen as the only players in history to ever win them all.

It was a frustratingly bitter defeat for Nicklaus, who failed this year for only the fourth time in his 13 pro years to win at least one major championship, and it was also a hard setback for Cole.

Eight players were within three strokes of Trevino's lead when the final day's play began, but it quickly became evident this would be another of those Trevino-Nicklaus finishes, notwithstanding the up-and-down play of Cole, who made only five pars all day.

Players Report Wednesday As Strike Talks Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Members of the NFL Players Association agreed Sunday to temporarily end their 42-day-old strike and report to training camps for a two-week "cooling off" period beginning Wednesday.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said the union was doing so at the request of chief federal labor mediator W.J. Usery Jr.

Garvey expressed hope that the players' acceptance of the move "will bring the owners on the other side to their senses."

He did not preclude the prospect of the players walking out again, if no settlement can be reached with the owners' Management Council during the cooling-off period.

At a news conference, the union official said:

"We have decided that in the interest of the National Football League, in the interest of the country and the players, we will accept Mr. Usery's offer for 14 days."

In New York, the NFL Management Council was cautious in its first reaction to the players' decision to come back to camp for two weeks.

John Thompson, the executive director of the Council, said, "The decision does, of course, have ramifications for the rookies and veterans who have been in our camps and that's something we will have to review with our committee and our clubs as quickly as possible, before making further comment."

Thompson said the clubs have previously tabled the regular cutdown dates and will now have to decide what action to take.

The clubs are supposed to be down to 60 players now and were scheduled to slice their squads to 49 players by Aug. 27. Since that's just before the two weeks are up, it's unlikely the teams will cut the squads unless a contract is reached by then.

Garvey warned that the union would not let the sacrifices made by players who went on strike July 1 to go down the drain by signing an agreement that would not provide greater freedom and dignity for the players.

"The time has come for dignity and decency as far as the treatment of the players. The players are not going to tolerate this situation," Garvey said.

Usery, who was present at the players' news conference, has arranged for both sides to begin a new round of bargaining beginning Thursday. Negotiations broke off Saturday night after five straight days of marathon sessions.

Following the Saturday meeting, the seven-member executive committee of the union met with Garvey until past midnight and then resumed an all-day conference Sunday which ended with Garvey's announcement at the press conference.

Flanked by grim-faced members of the executive committee and with players from the Washington Redskins in the audience, Garvey declared: "At some point in negotiations, a union either begs or bargains. So far the owners want us to beg, and we won't do it."

"They also don't want to bargain, but we are not going to accept an agreement that wastes the sacrifices made by our players."

"We believe there is going to have to be an agreement," he added. "If not, collective bargaining may not be feasible in what is a monopoly situation."

Usery described the player decision as "a tremendous breakthrough" and expressed hope that he could achieve a settlement before the two-week cooling off period ended.

The Washington Redskins veterans, such as quarterback Bill Kilmer, who were at the news conference, said they were ready to play in next week's exhibition game since they have been working out on their own throughout the strike.

DANCING FOR JOY — Lee Trevino reacts happily after sinking birdie putt on the ninth hole of Sunday's PGA championship tournament. Trevino edged Jack Nicklaus by one stroke for the title to make it the fourth time in five major championships that Super Mex has won that Nicklaus was in second. Sam Snead was among those in third.

Charitable Angels Hand NY Win

By JOHN STELLMAN
It was a game that the Angels could claim on their 1975 Income Tax Return.

Call it a charitable deduction. When the final out was recorded at the Big-A Sunday, the scoreboard confirmed that the Yankees beat the Angels, 5-4.

Still, Dick Williams wasn't sure whether it was his team's generosity in allowing two unearned runs, or secondbase umpire Russ Goetz, that was responsible for the loss.

It was Goetz' critical signal—not call—in the seventh inning that permitted the Yankees to score twice and snap a 2-2 tie.

A two-out error by Rudy Meoli that prolonged the inning was followed by a walk to Jim Mason by loser Dick Lange. That gave Sandy Alomar the

Losing his footing while scrambling to the bag, Doyle appeared to touch the base with the ball in his right hand before Mason arrived.

"It wasn't that close," Denny insisted afterwards. "I could see him coming into the base."

"Everybody in the ball park (9,192) saw it but him (Goetz), insisted Ellie Rodriguez."

"If he hadn't thrown home," suggested shortstop Bobby Valentine, "I think he'd have called him out."

"My arms went like this," defended Goetz, extending them in a safe sign, "but my voice went out."

"I'm watching him (Mason) slide into me and he (Goetz) is yelling ahhh. . .," remembered Doyle.

"The problem was that Denny never heard what the umpire said," explained Valentine, who sent Lou Piniella to the railing in front of the left field seats to catch his home run in the ninth. Piniella's leadoff home run over the wall in left to start the second staked Dick Tidrow, a shaky winner, to a 1-0 lead. A walk, singled by Thurman Munson, and Mason's grounder to second produced a second run.

Rodriguez' two-out single in the fifth scored Joe LaHoud, who opened with a walk, the first base runner allowed by Tidrow. He advanced on John Doherty's single.

Mickey Rivers' 11th triple, tops in the American League, followed by Meoli's sixth inning single, pulled the Angels into that 2-2 tie.

Elliott Maddox then singled Mason home following the sign by Goetz that Doyle and Rodriguez said he changed three times.

HALOS—Roger Moret, who hurled 7 2/3 innings of no-hit ball his last time out, faces Nolan Ryan who lost a no-hitter with one hit in the ninth last time he pitched. Tonight, Ryan's last ball likely will be the basis of a September promotion being conducted by publicist George Lederer. Lederer is hoping to arrange for the timing of Ryan's last ball of the season to coincide with the promotion.

Garvey's Triple Powers Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Steve Garvey hit a two-run triple with two out in the third inning Sunday and Don Sutton tossed a five-hitter to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 3-1 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Dave Lopes reached base on a fielder's choice and Jim Wynn walked in the third before Garvey laced a shot off the rightfield wall that scored both runners. Garvey, who collected a single and a double in addition to his triple, raised his average to .324 with a perfect 3-for-3.

Sloppy fielding gave the Dodgers another run in the fourth. Ron Cey led off with a two out in the third inning groundout that shortstop Mike Tyson bobbled for an error. Cey made it to second on a wild pitch by starter and loser Lynn McGlothen then took third when catcher Ted Simmons' throw to second bounced into center.

Don Sutton, who raised his record to 10-8 in allowing five hits, brought Cey home with his second single of the day.

St. Louis scored its only run in the fourth when Bake McBride led off with a bunt hit, went to second on Reggie Smith's walk, took third on Simmons' outfield fly and scored when Ken Reitz singled.

LOSING THE ARGUMENT — Angel manager Dick Williams listens to arguments by the umpire following a controversial play at second base in the seventh inning of Sunday's contest with the New York Yankees at Anaheim Stadium. Jim Mason, kneeling on the back, was ruled safe at second base when Danny Doyle failed to apply tag, according to the umpire's judgment. The Angels failed to win the game, also, failing, 5-4.

Sun City Wins Pacific Women's Crown

Judy Hoke had a double and three singles and knocked in all three runs to lead the Sun City Saints to a 3-1 victory over the Orange Lionettes and the Pacific Women's Softball League baseball title Sunday night.

Sun City, which won an 18-2 error-marred contest Saturday night, after losing a 1-0 14-inning decision to the Lionettes, ended a long reign for Orange as the league title holder.

Orange bounced back to take the nightcap, 3-2, to finish one game behind Sun City.

Shirley Topley singled and Carol Weinmann tripled to score the deciding run in the fourth inning. Orange tied the game in the third on a walk to Patti Schnell, a single to Penny Higdon and an error off the bat of Debbie Ricketts.

Sun City scored twice in the first inning on an error and single by Marilene Rau and Judy Hoke and owner Ginger Kurtz's sacrifice fly.

The Lionettes, with a 15-9 league record, open defense of their regional tournament title Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Mc-

Dons Rip Rustlers, Lead Metro

The Dons clinched at least a tie for the Metropolitan League baseball title Sunday afternoon by routing the Rustlers, 9-2, at Golden West College.

The Chargers scored two times in the bottom of the ninth inning to nip the Hornets, 8-7, and move into a "tie" for third place.

The Dons tallied five times in the first inning to put their game away early. With one out, Jim Gardea and Jerry Linnert both singled and pulled a double steal. Ron Douglas singled both home and the Dons loaded the bases on a single by Kyle Newman and a walk to Keith Calder.

The Crazy Canadian

How can any one whisky have so much going for it? It comes from the famed McGuinness distilleries whose whiskies have taken both the gold and silver medals at the Paris international competition. Canadian LTD is personally blended by Larry McGuinness whose skill is so legendary that he still does the blending, although chairman of the board. LTD is McGuinness' latest triumph. Yet, amazing as it seems, this fabulous imported Canadian costs less than many domestic whiskies. You'd be crazy not to try it.

Imported Canadian LTD

Giants Sweep Pair Over Slumping Cubs

National League Roundup
By United Press International
Pinch-hitter Tito Fuentes, two-out, four-run single high-lighted a two-run ninth inning Sunday which gave San Francisco a 6-4 victory and a doubleheader sweep of the Chicago Cubs after home runs by Bobby Bonds and Gary Matthews led the Giants to a 5-3 triumph in the opener.

The double loss extended the Cubs' losing streak to seven games.

Trailing 4-2, entering the ninth, Gary Maddox got the Giants within one run with his second homer of the game and San Francisco loaded the bases on a single by Chris Speier, a double by Ed Goodson and a walk to pinch-hitter Steve Ontiveros. Fuentes then chopped a single to center field to score Speier and pinch-runner Mike Phillips.

Reliever Tom Detore walked Bonds to reload the bases and then hit Chris Arnold with a pitch to force in the fourth run of the inning.

In the opener, Matthews broke a 3-3 tie when he led off the seventh with his 13th home run and the Giants added an insurance run in the ninth when Dave Kingman stole home.

In other games, Cincinnati beat New York 10-4, Pittsburgh trimmed San Diego 8-1, Atlanta nipped Philadelphia 6-5, Los Angeles downed St. Louis 3-1 and Montreal edged Houston 5-2.

Johncock Nips Foyt In '200'

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (UPI) — Gordon Johncock beat A.J. Foyt across the finish line by a slim three seconds Sunday to win the Tony Bettenhausen 200-mile Classic for Indy type cars. He clocked a record average speed of 118.752 miles per hour in the win.

For Johncock, winner of the 1973 Indianapolis 500, it was his first victory of the season and his fourth win on the one mile State Fair Park speedway.

He picked up $12,829 for the victory in an STP Eagle-Offy. Foyt earned $7,002 in the race. The record speed eclipsed the old Bettenhausen Classic record of 114.304 miles per hour by Al Unser in 1970.

Wally Dallenbach finished third, followed by Bobby Unser, the U.S. Auto Club point leader, and Johnny Rutherford, second in the standings. The victory moved Johncock into third place among the point leaders.

Heavy thunderstorms in the Milwaukee area delayed the start of the race two hours, but when it got underway the disappointing crowd of 20,480 was treated to a record performance right from the start.

Foyt charged into the lead and recorded the fastest first five miles ever clocked on the speedway with a time of 1:25.54.

Dallenbach took over the lead on the 16th lap and held on until Johncock grabbed it on the 61st lap. Dallenbach took it back in the 66th mile before giving it up to Bobby Unser at the 101 mile mark.

Connors Meets Borg In Finals; Evert Triumphs

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors eliminated defending champion Manuel Orantes and Bjorn Borg disposed of Raul Ramirez Sunday in semi-final singles matches of the National Clay Courts tennis tournament.

Connors defeated Orantes, 6-4, 6-3, and Borg advanced to the Monday's championship tilt, winning 7-5, 6-7, 6-4 over Ramirez in a two-hour match.

Orantes led Connors in the first set, 4-3, but Connors won the next three games to close out the set and was in complete command of the second set.

A win would mean Connors, Belleville, Ill., and his fiancée, Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., would be coed champs as they were at Wimbledon.

Miss Evert pounded Gail Chaffrean of France, 6-0, 6-0, in 35 minutes to win her third straight Clay Courts championship.

It was Miss Evert's eighth straight crown, gained in a string of 39 straight matches.

Mrs. Chaffrean, who won this tournament in 1969, was able to force Miss Evert into a deuce score only twice.

Killebrew Celebrates 'Day' With Key Hits

American League Roundup

By United Press International

Harmon Killebrew, honored in a moving pre-game ceremony, repaid his fans with a pair of run-scoring singles Sunday to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Killebrew, playing in his 2,300th game, singled home a run in his first at bat in the first inning and triggered a three-run fifth-inning rally with another run-scoring hit as the Twins tagged 13-game winner Ross Grimsley with his 10th loss.

Dave Goltz worked six innings and recorded the victory but needed help from relief ace Joe Campbell, who set the Orioles down over the last three innings.

Killebrew was honored by a crowd of 27,363 including Gov. Wendell Anderson and Senators Hubert Humphrey and Walter Mondale and the mayors of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Bloomington.

Donations of several thousand dollars were sent to two of his favorite charities, the University of Minnesota Leukemia center and Children's Primary Hospital in Salt Lake City.

In the other games, Cleveland downed Chicago 3-2, Kansas City beat Milwaukee 5-2, New York edged California 2-1 and Boston beat Oakland 2-1.

Jim Perry hurled six innings of shutout ball before being relieved in the seventh en route to his 12th victory of the season and Charlie Spikes belted his 10th homer as Cleveland snapped a four-game losing streak with a win over Chicago.

The Indians staked Perry to a 3-0 lead after six innings but the veteran righthander was lifted after giving up a leadoff homer to Bucky Dent in the seventh.

Thurman Munson singled home what proved to be the winning run in the eighth inning to give New York the victory over California.

Singles by Lou Piniella and eighth inning with a 2-0 lead. Graig Nettles preceded Munson's two-out, run-producing single that put the Yankees ahead 5-3 in the eighth. The Angels retaliated with a solo run in the bottom of the eighth, but reliever Cecil Upshaw prevented further damage in relief of Dick Tidrow and Tippy Martinez.

Juan Marichal, turning back the clock to his star years with the San Francisco Giants, stymied the Oakland A's for eight innings in pitching Boston to victory.

Marichal, out of action most of the season with a recurring back problem, left after the Milwaukee.

Paul Splittorff, 12-12, yielded giving way to Lindy McDaniel in the ninth.

and Diego Segui finished up for him as the Red Sox remained four games in front in the American League East and shaved Oakland's edge in the West to five and a half games.

It was Marichal's third straight victory, fifth in six decisions this year and 243rd of his career which tied him with Bob Gibson of the Cardinals for most victories by an active pitcher.

Fran Healy blooped a two-run double into left center, sparking a five-run first inning that propelled the Kansas City Royals to the victory over the Milwaukee.

Bowling Along

With JACK SCAGNETTI

It's that time of the year once again when bowling centers are busy organizing leagues for the fall-winter season which is traditionally launched after Labor Day.

The hot weather may prevent some bowlers from realizing the time is coming soon for the new season. It's best to act quickly if you want to be assured of a spot at your favorite bowling center. More and more people are bowling, so openings fill up fast.

Meanwhile, there's a selection of summer tournaments and promotions for bowlers looking for some action and prizes. Let's take a look at some of them:

The $40,000 - guaranteed Kywikie '74 handicap singles tournament at Imperial Bowl, near the Los Angeles Airport, continues through Sept. 5. It is open to both men and women.

Amateurs are invited to bowl with the Professional Coast Bowlers in the PCB Pro-Am tournament Saturday at 9 p.m. at Glenn Allison Lanes, near the L.A. Airport. The total prize fund is estimated at $1000.

Blue Chip prize bowling and coffee club or breakfast club bowling promotions are available in Orange County. Pacific Lanes (Santa Ana) has coffee club events Fridays at 10 a.m., Saturdays at 1:45 p.m. and Sundays at 10 a.m. with guaranteed cash prizes. The center has Blue Chip prize bowling Saturdays at 7 and 9 p.m.

Westminster Lanes runs its Blue Chip bowling every Sunday at 9 p.m. and its breakfast club on Sundays at 8-11 a.m.

Linbrook Bowl, Anaheim, holds Blue Chip sweepers Saturdays at 7 and 9 p.m., with double Blue Chip events Mondays at 1 p.m. and Wednesdays at 1:30 p.m.

Champion Lanes, Garden Grove, conducts its Blue Chip "carnival" bowling Sundays: Anaheim Bowl has Blue Chip bowling Saturday at 1 p.m. and Sundays at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. (The center is staging a five-game sweepstakes every Saturday at 6:30 p.m.)

La Habra 300 Bowl has double Blue Chip bowling Fridays at 1 p.m. for women only, and Saturdays for men and women at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Kona Lanes, Costa Mesa, has Blue Chip sweepstakes on Friday afternoons.

Farrell Hinkle of Irvine moved into the coveted top five in the West Coast Match Game Eliminations at Costa Mesa's Kona lanes. The left-hander did it on the strength of a 918 four-game total that included a 277.

With only eight games remaining over the next two Monday nights, Doug Johnson of Long Beach continues to lead the 16-man field that will be cut to the top five for the championship finale. He leads John Havelles of Garden Grove of 146 pins. In third place is Art Behrens of Hawthorne, one pin behind Havelles. He is followed by Dick Braasch of Westminster, 120 pins behind third place.

After Hinkle comes Terry Brent of Santa Ana in sixth, who moved there from 11th by winning four matches. Bob Weller of Norwalk is seventh, 125 pins out of fifth place.

Len Urbanak of Huntington Beach, the top scorer in weekend action a week ago with a 1270 total, is in fifth place in the Cal-State Masters' tournament at Oxnard, assuring him of a spot in the 64-man finals Sept. 7-8. The prize fund for the finals is estimated at $16,000 with the winner getting about $1200. The Cal-State continues qualifying play through August.

Homer 'Atmosphere'

Poor At Big A. Shea

WASHINGTON (U.P.I.) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, Atlanta Braves, Kansas City Royals and Minnesota Twins enjoy the best home run "atmosphere" in their home parks, according to Robert Kingsley, a Washington baseball buff and stadium consultant.

The worst parks from a home run hitter's standpoint because of wind, air, altitude and humidity conditions, according to Kingsley, are San Francisco's Candlestick Park, Milwaukee's County Stadium, the California Angels' Anaheim Park and Shea in New York.

A retired Pentagon mapping expert, Kingsley has been calibrating major league home runs since 1952 as a hobby, using as his input data 22,000 homers hit over a 12-year period, precise stadium dimensions (including foul ball territory), the slugging proclivities of the teams and the atmospheric conducive to "ball carry."

Combining the physical dimensions of the 24 American and National League stadiums with the atmosphere factor, Kingsley concludes that Cleveland, Detroit, Montreal and Fenway Park in Boston offer the greatest over-all homerun potential.

Using both factors, the toughest home run parks are Yankee Stadium, Kansas City, Milwaukee and Shea, according to his calculations.

Kingsley cites the physical principle that the higher the altitude and the warmer the temperature, the thinner the air, thus less resistance to the carry of a hit baseball. He notes that the highest stadium elevations are in Atlanta, Kansas City, Minnesota and Pittsburgh; the warmest season weather in Arlington, Texas, and Atlanta.

He holds that the Atlanta Braves are favored by the thinnest air in the majors, followed by the Kansas City Royals, the Texas Rangers and Minnesota Twins while the densest air prevails in Oakland, San Francisco, Montreal and Boston.

But Kingsley also takes the wind factor into consideration and finds that Jarry Park in Montreal enjoys the best home run wind assistance overall while the worst home run winds are at Arlington. He believes that "these extreme wind factors mean a difference of about 30 per cent in home runs."

Orange County's ageless golfing wonders, Heinie Maurer and Dad Miller, are getting ready for their annual "thing."

Maurer, who will reach the tender age of 85 on Aug. 16, is training for his marathon stint originating 11 years ago when deciding to play one hole of golf for every year in age. He has repeated the performance each year but on each occasion it becomes more and more of a task.

Willowick Golf Course has been the scene of all ten previous celebrations and will serve as the scene for number eleven. The 85-hole grind will begin around 6:30 a.m. with a break in activity during the noon hour, followed by completion in the afternoon. For the record, Maurer walks the entire distance.

A story behind Maurer's trek is centered on Jim Ayers, a semi-paralyzed golf enthusiast who has never missed assisting Heinie.

Ayers suffered a heart attack while playing golf with Maurer and was given up for lost. However, Ayers displayed true grit and surprised medical authorities by making a comeback. He was immobile as an after-effect. Maurer, a genius at putting things together, devised a special brace for Ayers and it wasn't long until his friend was back walking again. Although Ayers accompanies Maurer in an electric cart, he does walk to the flag stick and retrieve the ball on each hole.

Maurer, former head professional at Recreation Park in Long Beach and one of the most popular figures in Registerland golf circles, can use all the support possible during the day. Everyone is invited out to help cheer him along.

Ed Nix, one of the senior radio newsmen in Orange County, is up-to-the-minute on the Dad Miller 6th annual Golf Tournament and Birthday party, so let him tell about it.

"To most golfers (duffers that is) when you say 97, it means their Sunday score for 18 holes. When you say that to the living legend of Anaheim, George Herman "Dad" Miller, you mean his age. As for his score, that's something else again.

"At 97 years of age, "Dad Miller" makes his usual round of 18 holes in the low 90's, 91 or 92. It wasn't always so. When he first decided to take up the game, he was 55, and 21 years later, at 76, he turned in a sharp score of 71. He won a national seniors title at age 84 and then topped that by recording two holes-in-one after his 84th birthday.

"That's only part of the Dad Miller story. Other parts would have to include five Dad Miller pro-am tournaments that have helped raise funds for the Braille Institute of Anaheim. This year, Sept. 7 and 8 will mark the 6th such tournament bearing his name. Two courses will be used for the 36 hole partners best ball tournament, Anaheim Hills (a testy new course) and Anaheim Municipal. As in past years, the tournament will be sprinkled with some of Hollywood's best golfers along with low-handicappers from Orange County.

Pebble Beach Gets '77 PGA

CLEMMONS, N.C. (U.P.I.) — The 1977 PGA Championship was awarded Tuesday to Pebble Beach, marking the first time in 30 years the tournament will be held on the West Coast.

Bill Clarke, president of the PGA, announced agreement on the site two days before the start of the 1974 Championship.

The '77 PGA will mark the third year in a row the tournament is staged on a course acknowledged to be among the best in the country after a series of years in which it was moved among rather ordinary courses.

Next year's PGA is set for Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, and in 1976 it will be held at Congressional Country Club in Washington, D.C.

Pebble Beach, which runs along the ocean on California's Monterey Peninsula, is one of three courses used each winter for the Bing Crosby Pro-Am. The U.S. Amateur also has been played there three times and the U.S. Open was held there in 1972, when Jack Nicklaus won it.

The two-day 36-hole event will be capped off with a huge banquet to be held in the Anaheim Convention Center on Sunday night, Sept. 8, starting at 6 p.m.

TPC Is Next Big Event

While "hot irons" are still smoking at Tanglewood Country Club (Clemmons, N.C.) today as the 56th annual PGA Championship winds up, a few players are looking ahead to an ultimate giant of them all...the first $250,000 Tournament Players Championship. It goes on Labor Day weekend (Aug. 31-Sept. 2) at nostalgic Atlanta (Georgia) Country Club.

One of these happens to be the "Merry Mex" Lee Trevino.

"Man, this TPC thing is going to carry a lot of weight," quipped Trevino. "The winner gets a 10-year exemption, $50,000, and as far as I'm concerned, they should add a spot in the World Series of Golf," continued the El Paso native and one of six golfing millionaires.

Trevino has even been doing his homework. "Do you know a lot of Civil War history is centered around the land on which this golf course was built? Why, down below the green on the 13th hole is half a building used to make Confederate money during the war. I just hope they don't plan on that type of payment for the TPC," he laughed.

"This is a great course to hold the first tournament. Atlanta Country Club doesn't favor any particular player, you can really work the ball," continued Trevino. "Bob Lunn (a former Atlanta Open winner) fades the ball right to left while Gardiner Dickinson draws the ball (winner in 1971 in playoff with Trevino and Jack Nicklaus), showing just how interesting it might be."

Golf's fabulous "motor-mouth" is looking ahead...and looking for a key to the winner's circle.

SHORT PUTTS...The new daughter born to former U.S. Open Golf Champion Dick Mayer and Mrs. Mayer (Jacque) has been named April Ann. Both Dick and Jacque are associated with Murietta Hot Springs Resort-Hotel-Spa and plan an early return to duty following birth of the 9-pound one-ounce future LPGA Queen at Hoag Memorial Hospital (Newport Beach). Dick is director of golf and resident professional while Jacque takes care of public relations activity. They maintain a home on Balboa Island.

Larry Case, formerly head professional at Craig Ranch Golf Course near Las Vegas, has been named teaching professional at San Juan Hills Country Club, according to manager George Harrington...Fullerton is going to have $297,000 for improvements on the municipal golf course. Of this, $200,000 will go toward updating the clubhouse during the 1976-77 fiscal year...It appears some kind of "civil war" is going to erupt in Anaheim.

Members of the Municipal Golf Course on Gilbert St. and members of Anaheim Hills Golf Course have scheduled a home-and-home confrontation for Aug. 31-Sept. 1 at Muni and Sept. 14-15 at Anaheim Hills. Incidentally, there doesn't seem to be any substance to reports Anaheim Hills is going to be leased by a private firm. The city would like getting out from under it all, but nothing firm has been set...

Placentia All City Tournament entries have been coming in nicely, according to reports. The event will be held at Alta Vista Country Club on Monday Aug. 19. Closing date for entry is Aug. 12 and the city Parks and Recreation department is handling it all...Santa Ana Country Club is the scene of the Tustin Boys' Club Golf Tournament on Sept. 9. According to Bob Sorenson, chairman of the event, more than 70 entries have been received with the list being limited to 144. More information can be obtained at 838-5223...

Irvine Coast Country Club gets the 10th annual CYO Golf Tournament on Sept. 16, according to Ray Lowe and Val Tardif, co-chairmen. A donation of $107 insures a player of a great afternoon and evening of golf and fun. If 100 entries are received before Sept. 9, a shotgun start can be assured. Contact Lowe or Tardif at 547-0003 for additional data.

NBA 'Jazzes Up' With 738 Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association, having "jazzed" up the alignment with an 18-team setup, will open a record 738-game 1974-75 season on Oct. 17.

The New Orleans Jazz, newest franchise in the NBA, goes under fire against the Knicks in New York that night and Seattle plays at Phoenix.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy said this was the latest league start in 13 years and there was some speculation it was deliberately conceived so there would be no conflict with the baseball World Series.

The NBA sked is 41 games heavier than last season and extends to April 6. Two features of the campaign are the 25th annual East-West All Star game, at Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 14, 1975, and the Hall of Fame game in Springfield, Mass., Oct. 28, between Milwaukee and Philadelphia.

New Orleans will play its home games, except for one, in Municipal Auditorium while waiting for the Superdome to be completed. The other contest is slated for Baton Rouge. Two other clubs move into brand new facilities — the Kansas City Omaha Kings in 16,649-seat Kemper Arena and the Cleveland Cavaliers in the 19,500-seat Mid-west Coliseum. The Kings have scheduled 11 home games in Omaha.

Buffalo will play six of its regular home games in Toronto, which will have the Canadian territory to itself as the NBA's 19th franchise in 1975-76. The Milwaukee Bucks contracted for three games in Madison, Wis., and the Boston Celtics slated three games for Hartford, Conn., three at Providence, R.I., and one in Springfield.

The Central Division picks up New Orleans, making it a five-team section with Atlanta, Cleveland, Houston and Washington. Other divisions retain their alignments.

of the first half Sunday to break open a close game as the New York Giants downed New England 21-6 in the Patriots' first home exhibition game.

Jones' return came moments after John Smith's second field goal for New England which had pulled the Patriots to within a point.

The game was played before 17,992 fans, far below the capacity of 61,279.

The Giants scored on their first drive of the game, marching 74 yards in 14 plays. Led by running back Leon McQuay, who carried five times for 24 yards in the drive, the Giants moved quickly inside the Patriots 20-yard line. A 13-yard sweep by Steve Crosby brought New York to the 10-yard line and a pass from Randy Johnson to Bob Tucker put the Giants on the one with a first and goal.

Charlie Jessamy plunged in for the score on the next play and Pete Gogolak added the point after.

New England scored six points on two field goals in the second quarter to make it 7-6 at the start of the quarter. New England was on its own 28-yard line with a first and 25 after a clipping penalty. Neil Graft, a free agent from the Minnesota Vikings, completed three passes good for 28 yards, and Skip Lyman followed with three runs for 12 yards to put the Patriots on the Giant 35, when the drive stalled on the 29-yard line. Smith took over with a 46-yard field goal.

Smith added another three pointer on the Patriots next series after John Sanders returned a Marty Woolbright punt 34 yards. New England marched to the Giants four-yard line before Smith made it 7-6.

Immediately afterward, Jones took Smith's kickoff on the goal line and scooted 100-yards for the touchdown.

New York scored again with nine minutes left in the game when Johnson capped a 93-yard, 14-play drive with a 13-yard pass to Steve Maier.

Rookie QBs Spotlited

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Two of the National Football League's most promising rookie quarterbacks, David Jaynes of Kansas City and Gary Marangi of Buffalo, meet tonight before an expected crowd of 35,000 at 8:05 p.m. (CDT) in Arrowhead Stadium.

Jaynes, last year's consensus All-America from Kansas, was impressive in his debut, heaving a 46-yard touchdown pass on his first professional toss. That started Kansas City to a 20-12 victory over Detroit last Monday night.

Fans Are Back To See Pack Falter

NFL Exhibition Roundup
By United Press International
The Pack may not be back but its fans are.

Those enthusiastic, hardy Green Bay Packer fans, who didn't let that 13-below-zero weather bother them back in 1967 in the famous "Ice Bowl" game against Dallas, weren't going to let a couple of little things like a players' strike and a rainstorm keep them at home Saturday night.

A crowd estimated by the club at 43,000—only 4,000 short of capacity at Milwaukee's County Stadium—showed up to see the Packers down the St. Louis Cardinals 13-0 in the annual Midwest Shrine game.

It was the NFL's second largest crowd Saturday as most of the teams played before half-filled stadiums because of the players' strike.

The figures were better than they were Friday night, when only 21,560 fans showed up at two games, but still showed far below normal attendance.

A total of 243,280 showed up at the six games, bringing the weekend total to 264,840 for the eight games so far this weekend. One game is set for Sunday night and three more Monday night to round out the weekend schedule.

The Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins attracted 41,524 fans for their 45-20 triumph over the New Orleans Saints, but the crowd only half-filled the 80,000-seat Orange Bowl.

The biggest crowd of the night was at Los Angeles, where 46,468 turned out to watch the Dallas Cowboys defeat the Rams 13-6. The turnout was a marked increase from the Rams' opening game attendance of 23,021, but it was still a far cry from capacity in the 76,000-seat Memorial Coliseum.

In other games, 31,731 showed up in Cincinnati to see the Bengals beat Philadelphia 35-21, 34,319 showed up at Berkeley, Calif., to see Oakland down Atlanta 28-16, 23,119 were on hand at Denver to see the Broncos top Minnesota 27-21 and 23,119 turned up at San Diego to watch the Chargers defeat the New York Jets 20-14 in overtime.

Rookie Don Woods' 61-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter was the highlight of Green Bay's win over St. Louis. Veteran Chester Marcol had two field goals to account for the other scoring. Marcol booted a 45-yarder in the first quarter and a 40-yarder in the third period.

Coach Don Shula kept his star veterans who've crossed the picket lines out of action but the Dolphins still clobbered New Orleans. Rookie Charlie Thomas ran 66 and 90 yards on touchdown punt returns to lead the club. Larry Cipa, the New Orleans' quarterback, scored twice for the Saints.

Oraig Morton battling to regain his starting quarterback job with Dallas, hit Walt Garrison with a five-yard touchdown pass at 9:10 of the final period to spark the Cowboys' triumph over Los Angeles. Morton's pass to Garrison culminated a 94-yard, seven-play drive during which Morton completed a 69-yard pass to Les Strayhorn.

Lenvil Elliott ran a kickoff back 88 yards for a touchdown to pace Cincinnati to the victory over Philadelphia. Quarterback Wayne Clark tossed a 44-yard touchdown pass and ran one yard for another score while regular quarterback Ken Anderson also threw a TD pass. Philadelphia scored all its points in the final 2:10 of the first half.

Rookie Harold Hart scored the first two Oakland touchdowns to pace the Raiders to the triumph over Atlanta. Ken Stabler played only the first quarter for Oakland and completed nine of 11 passes for 111 yards. Larry Lawrence, a free agent, passed for one touchdown and ran for another after replacing Stabler.

John Keyworth rushed for 148 yards and two touchdowns to spark the Broncos' triumph over the Vikings. Randy Poffl of the Vikings scored on a 94-yard run with a fumble recovery.

Jesse Freitas and Glen

Bonner combined on an 18-yard touchdown pass at 5:17 in overtime to give the Chargers their victory over the Jets. The game was the first during exhibition play to go into sudden death overtime. The winning score was set up when

Steelers Expect Large Turnout

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers announced Sunday they refunded 4,430 tickets for their exhibition home opener tonight against the Chicago Bears.

A spokesman said 40,000 fans were expected to attend the game at Three Rivers Stadium. He said 12,000 tickets were available for sale at ticket gates.

Mantle, Ford Among Six Entering 'Fame'

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, super stars and fulfilling off-the-field buddies during the New York Yankees' golden age, will be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame today along with four other famous personalities of the past.

Joining Mantle and Ford in the shrine will be the late Sunny Jim Bottomley and Sam Thompson plus umpire Jocko Conlan and Cool Papa Bell, who played in the old Negro Leagues prior to 1947 when Jackie Robinson became the first black man to play in the majors.

The induction ceremonies, presided over by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, will be held on the porch of the National Baseball Library beginning at 10 a.m. They will be followed by a game between the Atlanta Braves and Chicago White Sox, featuring Hank Aaron, baseball's new all-time home run king and a sure-shot Hall of Famer himself when he becomes eligible for election.

Mantle and Ford were elected by members of the Baseball Writers' Association, while Bottomley, Thompson and Conlan were chosen by the Hall of Fame Committee on Veterans and Bell was named by the Hall of Fame Committee on Negro Baseball Leagues.

Mantle, Ford, Conlan and Bell will be present for the ceremonies while Bottomley will be represented by his widow, Mrs. Betty Bottomley Tucker. A nephew, Lawrence Thompson, will accept on behalf of Thompson.

The six new members will bring the total membership of the shrine to 146. Their induction will be witnessed by a swarm of baseball brass, including Hall of Famers Roy Campanella, Joe Cronin, Bill Dickey, Charley Gehringer, Lefty Grove, Buck Leonard, Monte Irvin, Joe Medwick, Casey Stengel and Stan Musial.

Mantle won the triple crown in 1956, hit 536 homers and compiled a .298 lifetime batting average for the Yankees between 1951 and 1968 and Ford had a 236-106 lifetime mark for a .690 percentage in addition to winning 10 World Series games. Bottomley had a .310 lifetime batting average and holds the major league record of 12 runs batted in for one game. Thompson hit 128 homers in an NL career that lasted from 1885 to 1898, and Conlan was a National League umpire for 25 years. Bell, a center-fielder, is one of the legends of the Negro Leagues and is said to have regularly batted between .340 and .400 and to have been perhaps the fastest runner ever to play the game.

Lightning Mandate Wins La Jolla Mile

DEL MAR—Classy Lightning Mandate, the son of Mandate, the odds-on favorite under highweight of 125 pounds, preserved his perfect record Sunday as he proved best in a stretch-long duel with highly-regarded Within Hail to win the $27,050 La Jolla mile before 18,417 spectators.

With Alvaro Pineda turning in a beautifully judged ride, Lightning Mandate recorded his sixth triumph without a loss in tallying by a length in 1.34 2-5, only a fifth-of-a-second slower than the stakes record set by Groshaw last summer.

Within Hail, second choice in the wagering at 3-2 under Bill Shoemaker, was six lengths in front of third-place Sea Agio, with Perchance To Rule fourth in the field of six three-year-olds.

Lightning Mandate, winner of the six-furlong Oceanside Handicap in his previous appearance, returned $3.80, $2.60 and $2.20. First prize of $15,800 increased the chestnut gelding's lifetime

'Championship Week' On At L. Alamitos

The $100,000 Championship will be the main attraction this week at Los Alamitos where the quarter-horse track swings into its final nine nights of racing. The hundred-grander will be the only stakes event on tap at the Orange County track although four featured races, (including the $25,000 Juvenile and $25,000 Marathon) will highlight the final three nights of activity next week.

The 20th running of the Championship will bring together 10 of the nation's finest horses with a $55,000 prize and an invitation to December's prestigious $50,000 Champion of Champions awaiting the winner of the 440-yard dash.

Charger Bar, the former world champion which appears to be well on her way to another Horse-Of-The-Year title, will be going for her 12th straight victory in the Championship and will be the heavy favorite after her impressive victory in the $50,000 Go Man Go Handicap under a career high 131 pounds.

Much of her opposition is expected from Don Guerra and Flight 109.

Don Guerra earned an invitation to the Champion of Champions by finishing second in the Go Man Go last month after earlier in the year running second back of $50,000 HQHRA Championship and the $92,700 Vessels Maturity.

Flight 109 won a trio of stakes races during July, winning the 300-yard Firecracker Express in track-record time and the Clabberton G. and Hard Twist stakes in the two fastest 350-yard clockings of the season.

Elan Again and Native Empress, divisional winners of the Miss Princess stakes last week, and Elita Capri, winner of the $86,100 Los Alamitos Derby are expected to be invited.

Others could possibly be Five Chics, Twelve Five or Jet Creek.

PAPER FOR RECYCLING — At Bank of America's Orange County warehouse, methods analyst Bernie Vasquez has been processing 1,400,000 pounds of waste paper for recycling. Vietnam veterans John Vaughn, left, and John Grauso, among those hired to dispose of the obsolete records, dump old forms into debris boxes. From there, the paper is separated by grades, pulverized and reworked into usable paper stock.

Execs On Move

Great Western Savings and Loan Association has named RICHARD FISHER and JAMES L. HUMPHREY assistant vice presidents, announced JOHN SINGLETON, corporate vice president and manager, Systems and Data Processing Division.

Both men are headquartered at Great Western's Santa Ana office, 1418 North Main St. R. Fisher serves as manager of both the Methods and Procedures and the Plans and Controls Departments. He joined the Association in 1972 as a senior systems analyst with 14 years of prior experience as advisory marketing representative for IBM Corporation.

Humphrey is a manager of Computer Operations for the Systems and Data Processing Division, a position he has held since January, 1974. He joined Great Western in 1972 as a senior systems analyst with over 18 years of data processing experience, including positions as regional manager and programming manager for a Los Angeles based company.

Dale K. Huson, 50, of Anaheim, has been named vice president and cashier of CALIFORNIA PACIFIC BANK, it was announced by Board Chairman Joseph H. Hadfield.

Huson will work out of California Pacific Bank's headquarters office at 1700 W. Orange-thorpe Ave. in Fullerton, said Hadfield, and will be responsible for operations supervision, lending and loan reviews for the independent bank.

Prior to joining California Pacific Bank, Huson was senior vice president and cashier of Charter Bank in Culver City.

Robert D. Bush has been named a vice-president of Avco Savings and Loan Association. He has been manager of the Association's Costa Mesa office for the past year.

Bush joined Avco Savings and Loan after several years experience with another savings and loan association in the Southern California area. He received a Bachelor of Science and Economics degree from Cal Poly at Pomona.

WILLIAM L. POPE has been named assistant vice president for insurance of the Orange County office of John Burnham & Company, San Diego-based insurance, mortgage banking, and property management firm. Pope, who attended Arizona State University, joined Burnham as an insurance account manager in the San Diego office in March, 1971.

Utilities Need Time To Recover

By ELIOT JANEWAY

Q: I've followed your column for quite some time and greatly appreciate your advice. However, I am unclear about your opinion of utility stocks. I do not understand why you expect their prices to rise while their yields remain approximately the same, and therefore, why you urge your readers to buy them.

W.K. (Dearborn, Mich.)

A: The last thing I expect for utility stock prices to rise. In my handbook, "You And Your Money," I take exception to the old view of utilities as growth stocks and treat them as "money" stocks. This means that there is no way their prices can rise until interest rates fall. Consequently, I recommend the accumulation of utilities because I expect their yields to continue rising.

But I temper this recommendation by cautioning investors that such accumulation is a luxury for those with reserve liquidity. Lots of it will be needed to support a program for tying up capital reserves in order to average investment costs down until interest rates drop. Utility stocks will not recover, nor will their yields decline, until interest rates come down and stay down.

Q: We would greatly appreciate your telling us what to do with two mutual fund investments made in 1966 and 1968 to supplement savings accounts twice as large. Although we are ahead, these funds are not doing as well as we expected.

and we are concerned about our retirement. Should we cash them in and deposit the money?

R. & E.D. (Orange, Calif.)

A: Mutual funds vary in quality and performance. You are lucky that the two you have stumbled onto are holding their own in a major bear market collapse. I suggest that you check whether the substantial gains shown against the market trend have been due to the reinvestment of income. Perhaps you would feel more secure if you switched half your investment into the new, short-term U.S. Treasury securities now being offered in $1,000 lots.

Q: I am 66 and retired, and thanks to you, my comfortable nest egg is in Treasury Bills and other high interest-bearing government securities. Now, I'm particularly interested in long-term rates. If the economy goes bust, will these rates come down? As a hedge against the possibility of a bust, would you recommend putting half my capital in long-term AAA bonds selling below par? This way I would be assured of a high rate and a capital gain if the bonds were called.

Mrs. A. MacG. (New York City)

A: The question you've asked is mighty realistic. Anytime the economy goes bust, there's no better investment than long-term AAA bonds that were issued when rates were low and that sell at deep discounts when the bust comes. Selling all depends on timing, and I hope to spot the right opportunity. I think that such a move would be profitable for you even if the entire economy doesn't go bust. I don't expect it to.

Q: I am the guardian of a 93-year-old woman. How should I invest amounts up to $16,000 for her in "short-term," safe investments that are within the limits of state law governing the investment of assets for guardianship accounts? Above all, I'm interested in safety, but at a rate that will keep pace with inflation. Passbook savings aren't terribly safe. It is not possible to know whether, or how soon, I would need to liquidate the money to cover medical bills. I am in a quandary as to how to do better than six-month Certificates of Deposit.

Dr. R.J. (Findlay, Ohio)

A: With $16,000 you can't get the wholesale 12 per cent rate. I have been advocating freedom for the savings and loans and country banks to pay the going rate for wholesale deposits up to $20,000—as a matter of equity for small savers and also to protect the savings institutions from losing deposits. Your best bet for now would be these new, short-term Treasury securities. Just remember that one of the uses of savings is for subsistence in old age. At 93, your ward is almost ready.

Q: In your column you stated that Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insured deposits are as safe as government bonds. I recently read that there is $350 billion deposited in U.S. banks, of which the FDIC has only $3 billion insured. Isn't this a narrow coverage?

A.W. (Bleacher, Ill.)

A: No deposits over $20,000 are insured by the FDIC, and that's where the big money is. I've been advocating extension of FDIC coverage up to $1 million for foreign deposits as a way of bringing money into the country and bringing interest rates down. Also, I think its time to increase the insurance premiums charged by the FDIC.

Q: I read in this morning's newspaper that the gold at Fort Knox is gone, sent to foreign countries and lying in the vaults of David Rockefeller. Any comment?

R.G. (Santa Ana, Calif.)

A: An outrageous and irresponsible lie. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon has offered a personally conducted Cook's tour of Fort Knox for anyone who was gullible enough to believe the statement.

Q: I have twenty years until my retirement, no debts except a mortgage, adequate insurance, some money in savings certificates and $200 a month to invest. My company has a supplementary retirement program which offers a choice of investing in either Treasury Bills, Federal mortgage or corporation bonds or common stock. We may use up to 10 per cent of our annual income. I have lost quite a bit with the common stock. Do I continue with this program, either in the same or different categories, or switch into something else?

R.M.C. (Spokane, Wash.)

A: Your problem is not with this flexible program offered by your enlightened employer, but with your choice of options. By all means stay with the program, but switch to Treasury Bills and stick with them. The rate of return they pay will be higher because received via this employee's trust, hence compound tax free until either you retire or quit, or the program is suspended. In that case, the return is taxable only at the lower capital gains rate.

Capital loss is the normal risk run by chasing rich income returns. Today's high interest rates are offering income-minded investors the advantage of the high return without the offsetting disadvantage of a capital loss.

Amcord Reports 30% Profit Rise

Newport Beach-based Amcord, Inc., Thursday reported a 30 per cent rise in operating profit to $3.127 million or 43 cents a share in the first half of 1974. Sales increased 15 per cent to $99.8 million from $86.7 million a year earlier.

The company also announced sale of its half interest in Philippine Rock Products, Inc., to House of Investment, Manila, the other partner in the venture, subject to approval of the Philippine Central Bank. This sale resulted in a capital loss of $1.03 million after taxes but Amcord had a $1.457 million capital gain on the sale of its 45 per cent interest in Hawaiian Cement Corp. Therefore it had net capital gains for the half of 6 cents a share, making total profit 49 cents a share.

Small towns and rural communities got nearly $520 million in loans to build water and sewer systems and other community facilities, Erwin added.

Erwin said a review of the lending programs operated through the Farmers Home Administration (FHA) showed they poured nearly $3.6 billion into rural areas in the year which ended June 30. This was nearly $400 million above the previous year if the agency's disaster relief loans are subtracted from overall totals.

The 1973-74 loans included nearly 31.8 billion to help build and improve homes for some 390,000 rural residents, Erwin's report indicated. They also included 399 loans totaling nearly $200 million to create an estimated 19,300 new jobs in rural businesses and industries.

According to a U.S. Geological Survey, the market for multi-spectral cameras and viewers is a minimum of 10,000 units with a sales potential of $150 million. The overseas market is about the same size. Analytical services arising out of this field are estimated at up to $100 million.

Another Castle & Cooke subsidiary, West Foods, Inc., controls about 15-20 per cent of the fresh mushroom business. Last year its total sales reached an all time high of about $12 million.

Bunker Ramo's Information Systems Division, Trumbull, Conn., is making money in the stock market by selling information about it. Its market information systems has sales of about $12 million annually.

A sister division—components group — ticks along merrily with auto clocks. It accounts for about 60 per cent of the $25 million industry sales in the U.S.

Multi-spectral photography is another market for people with the know-how.

The big three in this field are Earth Satellite Corp., Washington, D.C., which specializes in services and does about $20 million annually; Spectral Data Corp., Hauppauge, N.Y., which will do about $3 million in sales of equipment and services this year; and International Imaging Systems, a subsidiary of Intelcom, Mountain View, Calif., an equipment manufacturer.

According to a U.S. Geological Survey, the market for multi-spectral cameras and viewers is a minimum of 10,000 units with a sales potential of $150

Small Businesses Make It Big

By DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bigness has its virtue and rewards but so does smallness in businesses with special products and expertise.

Being a giant in a small industry can lead to tremendous growth. Such firms also invariably have strong patent and marketing positions and are highly successful in staving off invasion by bigger companies.

Hunt Manufacturing Co. of Philadelphia has found a niche in two small but lucrative fields — art supplies and pencil sharpeners.

Hunt has had $17 million in net sales last year. Its earnings per share have more than doubled between 1969-1973.

Daniel Industries of Houston, a primary source of products and services related to petroleum measurement equipment, today has the largest backlog of orders in its 43-year history.

The energy crisis has made its metering devices priority items. The company recently reported a 104 per cent increase in its six-month earnings.

Buckbee-Mears Co., a diversified high-technology manufacturer headquartered in St. Paul, also has found profit in smallness. It specializes in shadow masks for color television. It even supplies them to Japanese TV manufacturers, sort of like "shipping coals to Newcastle."

Buckbee-Mears reported an all time high first quarter this year.

THE TROUBLE SHOOTER

NO NEED TO ITCH

Dear Trouble Shooter

I read the letter in your column where a lady said to call the Mosquito Abatement District of Orange County if you had mosquitos. I did what she said.

I had been spraying and cussing for three months. My children had complained and scratched and I had spent many a hot night under a blanket only to have one foot get out and, by golly, I would wake up to a very itchy lump.

I called the Mosquito Abatement number on a Friday. Would you believe it? They were down and checked it out the next Monday. I call that fast service. They found that the mosquitos were breeding in a gutter and an apartment sump next to us. They are now cleaning out the sump and treating the gutter. I laughed when I read about Mosquito control in your column, but I'm not laughing now. Now I know why we don't have so many of those pesky bugs.

You can tell everyone who finds a mosquito to call. This is one organization that does something and we are getting our money's worth.

J.H.

Buena Park

Folks will find the Mosquito Abatement District of Orange County listed just that way in the white pages of their telephone directory.

HOPE THIS HELPS

Dear Trouble Shooter

I'm in a terrible spot and I need help! While attending the national convention of American Ex-Prisoners of War in Las Vegas last month, I met many new friends. Quite a few of them were surprised that we have an active chapter in Orange County, so I took their names and addresses and promised I would write and keep them informed on our meeting nights in Anaheim and Riverside.

It's beyond me what I did with all those names. I have searched my pockets and my papers from one end to another with no luck.

Now, it states at the end of your column that "if you have a problem, write." That's just what I'm doing. Your column is widely read, so I hope the folks whose names and addresses I've lost will get in touch with me by dropping a note to Leo A. Cormier, Jr., P.O. Box 321, Garden Grove 92642.

Garden Grove

Just to make sure your new friends don't miss a meeting podnah, let's tell them that the local chapter of American Ex-Prisoners of War meets the second Tuesday of each month at 8 p.m. in the American Legion Hall at La Palma and Lemon, Anaheim.

The Riverside Chapter meets the second Thursday of the month in the First National Bank Building (on Iowa Street just off Blaine) in Riverside.

WANT TO HELP?

Dear Trouble Shooter

I need some help from your readers in my organization's relay roller skate to Las Vegas to raise funds for muscular dystrophy. We are an association of roller skaters known as the Rexing Clubs of America. Last year, about 30 skaters collected $1,500 along the way and through pledges.

Our biggest problem this year is one that we didn't encounter last year. Motor home manufacturers last year donated the use of the vehicles for the duration of the event. We have asked again this year and found that such vehicles are not available. We need 8 or 10 of them over the Labor Day weekend. The motor homes are needed for teenagers to sleep in and eat and rest along the way. (All of the gas has already been provided.)

Our second problem is food. The menus have been planned by someone who lives in the desert area so that the meals will be nutritious and proper for the climate. However, our storage space is limited and with 50 or 60 skaters going this year, we will need money to buy food along the way.

Anything your readers can do to help us will be greatly appreciated, no matter how much, or how little.

Santa Ana

The Trouble Shooter's sure there are readers willing to make a small donation to a group of serious teenagers who are trying to raise $5,000 for the muscular dystrophy fund. Their checks should be made payable to "Rexing Clubs of America" and mailed to the local club's treasurer, Sue Berry, 10272 Ethel, Cypress 90630.

HAPPY ENDING

Dear Trouble Shooter

You and your readers will probably be as pleased as I was at the response of my letter in praise of the "quiet motorcycleist on Bliss Lane."

The other day, a young man came to my door and handed me an envelope. Before I could recover from my surprise, he walked away. The envelope contained a note identifying himself as the motorcycleist described in my letter and thanking me for appreciating his efforts.

He said a friend showed the column to his parents who had come out for his wedding. When his mother read about him, she shed a tear and his father took the column back with him to Baltimore. How timely that was!

And, would you believe that this young man apologized to me because he can't make his bike even more quiet?

Thank you for giving us an opportunity to find that consideration for others still exists in our turbulent world and to spread the good news!

J.H.B.

Tustin

And thank you, Ma'am, for giving folks a little peek at one of the nice things that happen as a result of the letters that folks write the O! Trouble Shooter.

SPECIAL SQUEEGEE

Dear Trouble Shooter

A service station operator last weekend used a very clever looking new kind of squeegee on our windshield. It comes on a handle and has a nylon-net-covered sponge on one side, the rubber squeegee on the other.

I have quite a few large plate glass windows in my home and I can certainly use one of the contraptions. The service station operator said he didn't know where his came from, that only the manager knew and that it was the manager's day off.

Can you steer me in the right direction?

W.R.K.

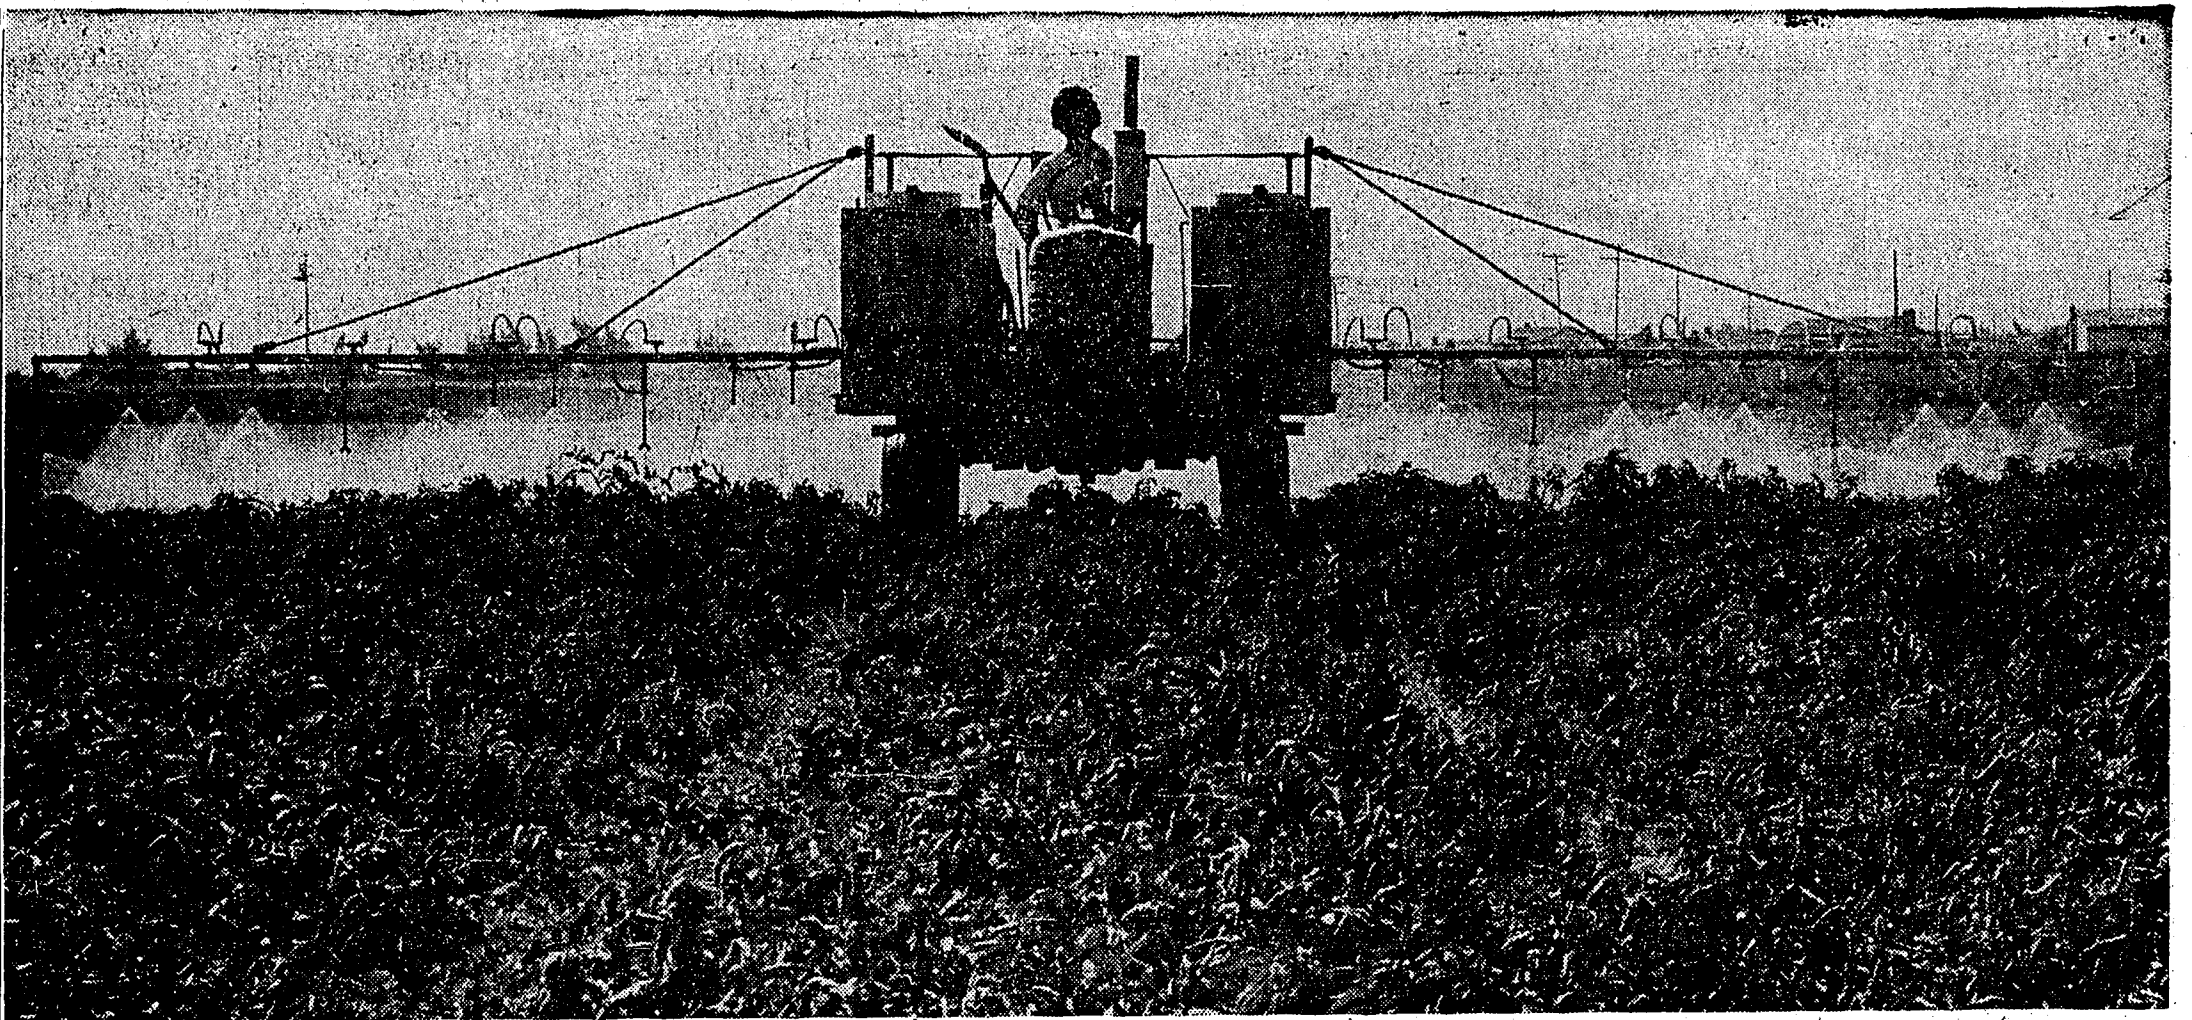

Anaheim

The Trouble Shooter checked with the man who services his own "tin Lizzie" and was told that such squeegees are distributed by the Southern California Warehouse of the National Brush Brokers, P. O. Box 494, San Jacinto 92583. The device costs under $5.

And, while he's on the topic of window washing, the Trouble Shooter reckons he might as well pass along another tip he was given recently. It may help some of his readers avoid those pesky streaks that always seem to appear as soon as a window washing job is completed. Instead of ripping paper towels off a roll to clear up the streaks, run a partially-used roll of towels up and down the window wherever a streak shows. Only the top towel or two will be soiled and you can tear them off later. Saves a lot of paper, the Trouble Shooter was told.

(P.S. When he's washing a window, which is as seldom as permissible, he doesn't use paper towels. He finds that a wadded up page of The Register does a fine polishing job.)

Got a problem? Write the Trouble Shooter, P.O. BOX 11626, Santa Ana, Calif. 92711. PLEASE DO NOT TELEPHONE YOUR PROBLEM. Due to the volume of mail, not all letters can be answered or acknowledged. Those published will be signed with initials only, but you must include your name, address and telephone number.

MONSTER-LIKE SPRAY RIG COVERS ROWS OF TOMATOES WITH LIFE-SAVING, PROTECTIVE LIQUID EACH SWEEP OF SPRAY
Tomatoes Get Shot Of 'Sun Screen' To Prevent Sunburn As The Fertile Ground Gets A Frost-Like Cover

Tomato Picking's Big Business On Irvine Ranch

By JOANNE TOEUFFER

Register Staff Writer

IRVINE—It's tomato picking time down on the farm.

And when the farm is the sprawling Irvine Ranch, that means a big, professional operation.

The tomatoes being picked aren't the large and juicy salad type. In fact, they're small and thick-skinned.

But that's the way they are supposed to be. They are canning tomatoes which will end up as tomato sauce, catsup or stewed tomatoes and they are grown especially for mechanical harvesting.

The harvest season itself—lasting from early August through most of September—involves several steps.

First, when the tomatoes have been sprayed, irrigated and bled to near-maturity, they get a dose of spray which keeps them cool and prevents sunburn.

The white spray, derived from a special white soil, can cool the tomatoes by 8 to 10 degrees below the normal midday high temperatures.

It also confuses many an early morning passerby. The powdery white spray, which covers the tomatoes, vines and ground, looks like a light frost. But who ever heard of an August frost in Orange County?

The spray—which includes some pesticides as needed—is usually applied a couple of weeks before harvest but is so safe for humans that U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations allow tomatoes to be picked the day after spraying.

When harvest day comes, large picking rigs and gondolas holding 13 to 15 tons of the red orbs swoop down on the tomato fields and leave them razed only a few hours later.

The tomato vines grow close to the grounds and are not staked up like salad tomatoes are. That's so the picking rigs can cut the vines close to the ground and sweep up leaves, tomatoes, stems and all.

The leaves and stems fall away as the vines make their way up the rig's conveyor belt.

Then 16 workers riding on the side of the machine remove the green tomatoes from the moving belt. And all that remains are the ripe, red fruit which spill into the gondolas.

Once a gondola is piled high, it is hooked to a truck and hauled off to the Hunt-Wesson cannery in Fullerton.

TARBELL

THE SPARKLING BRAND
NEW 1974

A black and white cartoon illustration of a man painting a wall. The man is depicted from the waist up, wearing a simple t-shirt and trousers. He is holding a paint can in his right hand and a paintbrush in his left hand, applying paint to the wall. The paint can has a label that reads "BUY A FORD". The wall he is painting has the letters "RA" visible on it. A bucket of paint sits on the floor next to him. The style is a simple line drawing with some shading to indicate form and movement.
